—JFK CAN MANEUVER WITHOUT CONGRESS—

Present Laws Permit Some Defense Shifts

By Edmond Le Breton

Washington (AP) — John F. Kennedy, as president, wouldn't need to ask Congress' permission to carry out a significant part of the sweeping defense overhaul recommended to him this week, congressional experts said Wednesday.

And these experts, authorities close to the ever-recurring issue of revamping the armed services, left no doubt that, if they are asked, they would advise the new administration to act on its own as far as the law allows.

They said it is better to push to the limits unused reorganization powers already on the books rather than add another early Congressional battle to those already foreshadowed by Kennedy's plans on medical aid to the aged, the minimum wage and other issues.

Controversial

The proposals submitted to Kennedy at his request by a committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., contain many controversial points. The most drastic are: (1) abolition of the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaryships, and (2) replacement of the joint chiefs of staff by a single staff headed by a powerful chairman.

These changes, everyone agrees, would require legislation and would be furiously opposed in Congress and by the armed services themselves—especially the Army and Navy.

No Stand

Kennedy himself has not indicated whether he favors these suggestions, or for that matter any other particular item in the Symington report. The president-elect commented only that the report was interesting and constructive and should be studied carefully both by Congress and the executive.

Some other major Symington recommendations were:

1. Abolishing 19 other high pentagon civilian posts, under secretaryships and assistant secretaryships in the defense and the separate service departments.

2. Setting up 3 big interservice commands, which presumably would absorb most of the combat units of the various services: a strategic command, a tactical one for limited and conventional missions and one for continental defense. Some have seen in the use of such functional commands a beginning of the end of the division of the armed forces into land, sea and air services.

Centralizing

3. Centralizing, in the name of speed, economy and efficiency, the whole process of research, development and production of new weapons systems under an undersecretary.

These 3 changes, in the opinion of congressional specialists, could be accomplished or approximated under authority granted the president and secretary of defense by the 1958 reorganization act.

Rep. Paul J. Kilday, D-Tex., one of the principal authors of that act, said Wednesday "very few of the broad reorganization powers it granted have ever been exercised."

Authority

Kilday is one of Congress' top authorities on constitutional and statutory law affecting the armed services and a frequent lecturer on the subject at advanced service schools. He opposes downgrading the separate military departments or abolishing the joint chiefs of staff, and noted the law specifically prohibits abolishing a service or setting up a single chief of staff system.

But he said that, apart from such proposals, "authority already exists for many of the items covered by the Symington report."

Kilday said the president could reduce the number of under secretaries and assistant secretaries by simply not nominating anyone to the posts — "the law sets maximums only."

Provisions

The 1958 law makes detailed provision for unified interservice commands. The president and secretary of defense may in effect draft into such commands any needed units from any of the services and the services may not without permission reclaim these units. A little-known section of the 1958 law removed one possible legal barrier when it specified that the military chief of each service has supervision and control, but not command, of the troops under him.

Some unified commands have been set up, but none as sweeping as those now proposed.

Jack Names Udall To Interior Position

New York (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy chose crowded Manhattan Wednesday to announce that his new secretary of the interior will be a Westerner—3-term House member Stewart L. Udall of Arizona. It was Kennedy's third cabinet appointment—with 7 more to go.

The man who will take control of the government Jan. 20 is running behind schedule on filling the top echelon of those who will help him govern. He had hoped to complete the cabinet by the end of this week.

But he told a news conference that he is taking time to exercise "the best judgment I can" for such positions as secretaries of state, defense and treasury because he hopes to get the best possible people and assurances they will remain in his administration for 4 years.

Helped Indians

Udall is a 40-year-old lawyer who once starred at basketball at the University of Arizona, developed an interest in Indian problems, and arrived in Congress in 1955. A Mormon, he served as an enlisted Air Force gunner during World War II.

He wears a crew cut and has a complexion burnished by the Arizona sun. He stood by Kennedy's side to hear the president-elect declare that he will provide vigor and imagination for the important assignment of preserving and developing America's vast natural resources.

"This is a great day for me," Udall said. He said the cabinet appointment poses a great challenge for the only citizen of Arizona ever given a cabinet post.

Not Enough

He said, too, that "we haven't done enough for our Indian citizens . . . we can and intend to do a better job."

Kennedy made the announcement of the choice of Udall—an entirely expected one—in a skyscraper hotel. It seemed a somewhat incongruous setting to disclose the choice of the person whose responsibilities, more than any other man in government, will cover the great reaches of the West.

This was a sort of hodge-podge day for Kennedy in the big city. He dealt with both interior and exterior problems. And he wanted to duck reporters and photographers and go Christmas shopping before returning to Washington.

Visited Dag

For the first time, Kennedy met in his hotel suite with U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Kennedy said they talked over some of the problems the new U.S. delegation to the United Nations will be facing, but not possible appointments to this delegation.

He said he has not talked with Ralph J. Bunche, undersecretary of the United Nations, a Negro who has been mentioned speculatively for some important post in the new administration.

He said he hoped to see Bunche on another occasion.

Guilty Plea In Hit, Run Fatal Crash

Chadron (UPI)— Narcis Ten Fingers, 28, Oglala, S.D., pleaded guilty to hit and run charges Wednesday in Dawes County Court here and was bound over to district court without bail.

Ten Fingers is charged with leaving the scene of a fatal accident late Tuesday in which Frank Christensen, Chadron farmer was killed.

Christensen, in his 60s, died en route to a hospital after a sideswipe collision involving his jeep and a truck on a county road 7 miles northeast of here, Deputy Sheriff Dwain Rish said.

The truck driver drove on without stopping, according to Benny Frogg, 20, an employe of Christensen's, who was riding in the jeep with him. Frogg suffered head bumps in the collision.

The death brought the state's 1960 traffic toll to 274, compared with 319 a year ago.

Interstate Bridges Over Platte River Nearly Finished

The twin Platte River bridges for Interstate 80 are nearing completion well ahead of the Dec. 31 deadline. While the 1,538-foot spans had been thought earlier to be the key to opening the Omaha-Lincoln segment of the superhighway by the end of 1960, unexpected delays in paving construction to the bridge approaches from the west will hold up opening the Interstate between the two cities until probably mid-1961. Top photo shows broken ice flowing under the bridge near its west approach while workmen (bottom photo) prepare the final span on the east approach for a poured concrete deck. After that, the bridge crew will install the guard rails and do final touch-up work. (Star Staff Photos.)

Most Bridges Unlevel To Look Level, But Not New Platte Interstate Structures

By Virgil Falloon

A "level" bridge is never level — and purposely so.

"A bridge designed absolutely level," explains Acting Deputy Engineer G. C. Strobel, "would not appear level."

"To the naked eye, it would appear to sag in the middle. Therefore, bridges are cambered slightly — raised in the middle — to overcome the optical illusion of sagging."

However, the engineer explained that the lengthy Platte River Interstate bridges were not cambered, though they will appear level.

Since there is a slight grade from east to west along the 1,500-foot span, it was not necessary to include a camber factor in design.

The west approach is 4.7 feet higher than the east approach, he said. Since the optical illusion does not occur on an incline plane, the bridge was designed without any camber.

If the approaches had been of equal elevation (no incline), the middle of the bridge would have been raised in design about 15 inches higher than its ends to compensate for the optical illusion on lengthy, absolutely level bridges.

Strobel said the final span on the west approach may incline noticeably when viewed at certain angles.

He said the final span inclines slightly more than the others to meet the angle of the grade approach over the hill.

Feeling Mounts In Favor Of Truck Route That Would Bypass The City

By Gerry Deal

The problem of trucks running through downtown Lincoln could likely be handled by a route bypassing the city.

This is the opinion of many who appeared before a hearing Wednesday on the proposed Lincoln-Lancaster Regional Plan.

The hearing, called to discuss the thoroughfare section of the plan, was the second of 4.

Chauncey Barney, Lincoln attorney appearing on behalf of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber believes the proposed plan is a "workable street plan for Lincoln."

He emphasized the importance of developing a bypass route in the near future, not only for trucks, but for rapidly-moving traffic around the city.

9th, 10th Streets

Barney said the Chamber is also concerned with the 9th and 10th street intersections, due to the effects of future traffic from the Interstate access.

This has been a concern of city planners for quite some time, and they have suggested a 7th St. bypass route to connect off the Interstate access.

Barney complimented engineers and the commission on a good job in drafting the regional plan.

The thoroughfare section was commended by former state Sen. Lester Anderson, Bruce Gillan of the Nebraska Department of Roads and Louis Weaver, Lancaster County engineer.

Anderson urged the commission to send a committee to the Legislature to discuss the road situation.

Taxpayers Leo Bartunek and Miss Eleanor Brown appeared before the group, saying they favor bypass plans.

Bartunek said "there's no reason for pigs, cattle, chickens and the like going down O St."

—SHERIFF'S SHOCK TROOPS TURN STAMPEDE—

Herd Hides From Rawhiders

By Jim Dunlevey

"Bring your rope and come a'running! There's a heifer hoofing around on West O"—so said the Lancaster Sheriff's radio.

The cattle roundup was on Wednesday night, and in a mighty unlikely place—near a swanky West O motel.

Sheriff's deputies queried "Who's pulling who?" as they attempted to bulldog and lasso a dozen head of cattle who tried to head for the wide open spaces.

It was quite a problem.

The deputies were wishing they weren't quite so well equipped.

It would have been a good night to exchange a late model patrol car for an old-fashioned cow pony.

The problem began when a semi-trailer loaded with cattle lost its tail-gate, just after turning onto West O from Burlington Ave., near the Congress Inn motel. The cattle leaped for freedom from the slow-moving truck.

Driver Alerts

A passing motorist headed off the truck driver a half-mile down the road.

But it was too late to "head 'em off at the pass."

After 2½ hours of hard riding 4 deputies—Bill Jones, Bob Lane, Vincent McNeill and Glenn Allen—along with about 8 volunteers, had corralled 4 of the animals.

They had hopes the others would settle down until morning in a milo field east of Capitol Beach.

But, one taste of bright lights was not enough for the steers.

When the cowpunchers headed for the bunkhouse, the cows headed back for the highway.

And, in the early morning hours Thursday, the roundup was still on.

Rocket Is Given 'Hot Rod' Boost

Discoverer XVIII, Carrying Human Tissue, Girdling Globe

Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force, using a new "hot rod" booster, fired into polar orbit Wednesday a Discoverer satellite containing human tissue and sky spy gadgets.

Planes later will try to recover the cargo by catching the moonlet's parachuting space capsule in the air.

The new satellite is girdling the globe once every 94 minutes in an egg-shaped path whose far point is 450 miles, near point 150.

Discoverer XVIII soared skyward at 12:20 p.m., burning louder and brighter and moving faster than any of its predecessors.

This was due to improvements in the engine of its Thor IRBM booster rocket. Its thrust has been souped up 15,000 pounds to a total of 165,000.

Power Increase Important

The power increase, officers said, will help the Discoverer program by:

First, permitting orbits at higher altitudes to gather data not available at present levels.

Second, enabling the second stage Agena B, all of which orbits, to carry more fuel. This means it can start and stop its engine in flight, and maneuver in space.

The human tissue, from the underside of an eyelid, was in a 300-pound capsule in the nose of the second stage. With it were bits of human bone marrow, algae, spores, Gamma globulin, albumin, gold foil and various kinds of film.

Scientists sent them aloft, and hope to recover them, to learn how they are affected by radiation—vital for the man in space program.

Cameras, Too

The spy gear was secret, but presumably included instruments being tested for the Midas and Samos satellite series. These include cameras for behind-the-Iron-Curtain reconnaissance, and infrared detectors to sense rocket firings.

Recovery plans were indefinite.

Normally, Discoverer catches are tried about 26 hours after launch. It is more valuable in the study program, however, for them to stay up longer, if possible.

The Air Force said that if all goes well, Discoverer XVIII will perhaps be allowed to whirl longer than any other in the series.

Longest lived Discoverer to date was No. 17, successfully recovered last month after more than two days in orbit.

Recovery plans call for the capsule to be ejected over the Arctic so it will parachute into a target area near Hawaii. Cargo planes trailing trapeze-like devices will try to snag its chute. If they fail, ships will seek to find it in the sea. Thus far in the series, two have beenplucked from the air, one from the sea.

Woman Ruled Innocent In Murder Case

Trenton (AP)—A 12-man jury turned in a verdict of innocent late Wednesday in the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Sue Hixon of Palisade.

She was charged in the shooting of a 17 year old boy she said was one of 3 she found raiding her watermelon patch last August.

The victim of the shooting was Gerry Carey, Palisade, killed by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle.

Bill Carter, 14, Palisade, had testified that he, Gary Carr, 16, Palisade, and Carey were riding in the Carey jeep when they decided to raid the Hixon melon patch.

He said all 3 went into the patch and that after hearing a shot, he saw Carey fall. Then, he said, he saw Mrs. Hixon approach with a rifle in her hands.

Mrs. Hixon testified she became frightened when she saw the boys in the melon patch, which she described as a means of support for her family.

She said she had not meant to hit anyone when she took the rifle and fired it.

Debre Runs Into A Storm Of Opposition

Paris (AP) — Premier Michel Debre ran into a storm of National Assembly opposition Wednesday after declaring nothing can sway France from promoting political progress in Algeria. It was simply a battle of words for no vote will be taken when the debate ends.

Despite the angry talk, the Assembly by 424-21 vote stripped away the immunity from arrest of a major foe of the Algerian policy, Deputy Pierre Lagaillarde.

A fanatical believer in the idea that Algeria must remain forever French, Lagaillarde slipped off to Spain while his trial before a military tribunal was in recess last week. He is accused of leading a French settlers' revolt in Algiers last January against President de Gaulle's Algerian policy.

Lays Down Challenge

Laying down his challenge at the outset of the debate, Debre took note of rebellious movements in Algeria. Besides the French settlers, Algerian Nationalists demanding independence have been at war against French rule for six years.

"We are ready for peace," Debre told the tense Assembly. "We are ready for self-determination. But we will never yield to movements which risk plunging Algeria into irreparable misfortunes . . ."

With no vote scheduled, all the debate accomplished was to release a lot of political steam.

Fair skies are forecast for Nebraska Thursday.

While some northern neighbors shiver in degree readings below zero, Nebraskans can look for temperatures above that but below Wednesday's. Highs ranging from 20 in the extreme northeast to upper 30s in the southwest, are forecast.

Partly cloudy skies with possible light snow flurries in the northeast, are forecast for Friday.

McCook, Beatrice and Broken Bow were the "hot spots" Wednesday as they all reported highs of 44. Scottsbluff, with a chilly 3, reported the state's low temperature reading.

Hoffa Surrenders, Then Freed On Bond

INDICTED ON CHARGES OF MAIL FRAUD

Orlando, Fla. (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa was indicted along with two associates Wednesday on charges of illegally pouring $500,000 in union funds into a Florida land development scheme and trying to sell the swampy lots to union members.

Named with Hoffa in the 12-count indictment were Henry Lower, president of Sun Valley, Inc., the land development firm which the funds allegedly were used to promote, and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., former branch manager of the Bank of the Commonwealth, Detroit.

The indictment charged that Hoffa and Lower sold lots acquired by them for about $18 each to union members and others at prices ranging from $150 to $1,000.

Half Million Involved

The indictments, handed down here by a federal grand jury, charge, in effect, that the defendants put up $500,000 in union funds to secure a 2,500-acre tract of land on Florida's east coast near Titusville, and encouraged union members to buy the substandard lots "so low and permeated with water as to make them unsuitable for construction."

The indictments were based on charges that the defendants used the mails and interstate telephone and telegraph lines to perpetrate a fraud. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said in Washington that postal inspectors, internal revenue agents, the FBI and Justice Department attorneys spent 13 months investigating the case.

Promptly Freed

Hoffa surrendered at the U.S. district attorney's office in Chicago at 4 p.m. EST and was taken before U.S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike. He was freed 13 minutes later under $10,000 bond.

"We'll try the case in court," Hoffa snapped at reporters. He was in Chicago to attend a round of union meetings.

He was in no better mood when he appeared before Pike, who set 2 p.m. Friday for Hoffa's arraignment.

"Why don't you make it 1 p.m., I have to make a train," Hoffa quarreled.

"That isn't the way we do things — that isn't the time we hear such cases," Pike fired back.

Patrol Of Caribbean To Cease

Washington (UPI) — President Eisenhower Wednesday ordered U.S. warships and planes withdrawn from a peace patrol designed to protect Guatemala and Nicaragua from possible invasion.

The president acted after the governments of the two Central American republics informed him the "emergency" had passed. They originally requested the patrol.

Eisenhower reacted Nov. 17 by instructing the Navy to protect Guatemala and Nicaragua from any Communist-directed attack. The move amounted to a blunt warning to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to keep hands off his Caribbean neighbors.

In announcing that the naval surface and air units have been ordered withdrawn, the White House said:

"The governments of Guatemala and Nicaragua have now stated that the emergency which led to their request has passed.

"Accordingly, all participating naval surface and air units have been ordered to return to normal operations.

"Our government is informing the other members of the Organization of American States of this decision."

Guatemala and Nicaragua requested the U.S. help following violence against the existing governments in both nations. The two countries charged that Castro was behind the armed uprisings, which later were quelled.

Joe Hampton New President Of Homebuilders

Joe Hampton was installed as new president of the Homebuilders Association of Lincoln Wednesday night at the group's annual Christmas party.

James Strauss was installed as vice-president. Paul Barney continues as treasurer and Lois Hillyer as executive secretary.

A special award was presented to Robin Snyder of Consumers Public Power District for his services as chairman of the annual Parade of Homes for the past 3 years.

About 200 persons attended the party at East Hills, which featured a mock Christmas "money tree." Instead of exchanging gifts, partygoers tacked money to the tree. The money will be used for gifts for children at Cedars Home, Whitehall State Home for Children and the Orthopedic Hospital, according to outgoing president Herb Heumann.

Train And Truck Hit; Six Killed

...Entire Family Dies

Nashua, N.H. (AP)—A 70-mile an hour interstate commuter train plowed into a bottled gas truck at a railroad crossing Wednesday.

Six persons, including an entire family of 4, were killed. More than 30 of the 50 passengers aboard the Boston-bound train were injured.

One of the injured was given last rites of the Roman Catholic church at a hospital several hours after the crash.

The collision set off a series of deafening explosions that blew the small truck to bits and started a flash fire that raced through the single-car, self-propelled train.

The victims included the truck driver, his wife and two infant children, the train's conductor and the law clerk of a federal judge.

Passengers on the flame-filled train screamed in terror as the car hurtled more than a quarter of a mile down the tracks before the engineer could bring it to a halt. Many plunged from the train, which did not leave the rails.

Burney Will Wait Morrison OK On New Air Director

Gov. Dwight Burney said Wednesday if the Nebraska Supreme Court affirms his firing of Jack D. Obbink as state aeronautics direrctor, he will not appoint a new man for the short time remaining in the term unless he and Governor-elect Frank B. Morrison agree on the man.

Obbink, a Democratic appointee of the late Gov. Ralph Brooks, was fired by Republican Gov. Burney in October for a Kansas City flight in a state plane in which Robert Kennedy, brother of now President-elect John F. Kennedy was a passenger. Obbink has contended before the Supreme Court that he was wrongfully fired and should be reinstated.

Gov. Burney said earlier he would wait until after the Nov. 8 elections to appoint a successor in hopes of agreeing with the governor-elect on a man who could continue into the next term.

However, because the Supreme Court has not yet reached a decision, Gov. Burney indicated he would leave the post vacant if he and Morrison are unable to agree.

Morrison will take over as governor Jan. 5, at which time he will be free to make the appointment.

Tree 'Topped'

Survivor Of Fatal Crash Still Critical

Walter Exon, 73, of Lake Andes, S.D., remained in critical condition in a Lincoln hospital early Thursday.

Khrush Ill With Flu

Moscow (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's illness was officially described Wednesday night as the grippe or fllu.

First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan made the announcement when he stepped before the microphone at a Kremlin reception for President Liu Shao-chi of Communist China—one of the many functions Khrushchev has missed since Saturday.

After the exchange of toasts for Liu, Mikoyan said:

"You probably wonder why a person who is so fond of making such great toasts is absent today, especially when he could toast the great Soviet-Chinese friendship."

"But Comrade Khrushchev has slight trouble with the grippe (influenza). And the grippe is stronger than human will. He could have overcome this trouble if the doctors had permitted. But they did not let him come. They are stronger than the grippe, and he had to stay in bed."

Most of the audience had known for two days that the 66-year-old Premier was ill, although nothing had appeared in soviet newspapers.

12-Day-Old Kennedy Baby To Leave Nursery Thursday

. . . For His Christening Ceremony

Washington (UPI)—The 12-day-old son of President-elect John F. Kennedy was described Wednesday as being in fine shape for his first peek Thursday into the world outside his nursery.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., will be christened Thursday in the Roman Catholic Chapel at Georgetown University Hospital, where he was born two weeks ago Friday.

It also will mark his pictorial introduction to the American public. A photographer will be allowed in the chapel for the ceremony.

Dr. Edward B. Broocks, the baby's pediatrician, said his tiny patient, born 3 weeks prematuredy and placed in an incubator for the first week of his life, weighs 6 pounds. This is three ounces short of his weight at birth. Babies tend to lose weight slightly after they are born.

Broocks said he was pleased with the young boy's gain in weight and the way he is taking food. His mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, was described by her nurse as being "radiantly happy" and looking forward to her release from the hospital on Friday.

The president-elect will take his wife and son to Palm Beach, Fla., Friday, where they will join the Kennedy's 3-year-old daughter, Caroline.

Broocks said he planned to contact the Kennedy pediatrician at Palm Beach in a day or so, but he stressed the baby will require no special care.

Mrs. Kennedy, who is expected to make her first public appearance since the birth at the christening, has rapidly recovered from her Caesarean operation. The 31-year-old future First Lady will continue to recuperate in the relaxed atmosphere of her father-in-law's seafront home at Palm Beach. She probably will remain there until early January.

Britain's Sausages Rather Aggressive

London (AP) — A British firm said Wednesday it has sold the Soviet Union a fully automatic sausage-making machine. Cost: 1,340 pounds ($3,752).

In Britain, sausages are known as bangers because of their tendency to explode when fried.

The firm said, however, that the machine "is capable of producing all types of sausages."

This leaves the Russians free to proceed with a recipe of their own which will produce a less aggressive end product.

Water Priority Question 'May Face Legislature'

Sidney (AP) — The question of water priorities for owners of irrigation wells may come before the Nebraska Legislature, C. Petrus Peterson of Lincoln, director of the National Reclamation Assn., said Wednesday.

Peterson

But it is unlikely such legislation will be adopted "until experience demonstrates this is a requirement for orderly development," he said in an interview.

Peterson's comments were made following his arrival in Sidney to attend the annual convention of the Nebraska Reclamation and Irrigation Assns.

Noted Authority

The Lincoln man, a former Nebraska state senator and widely known authority on water problems, noted that legislation already has been adopted to require registration of irrigation wells and to control their spacing.

"Nebraska is favored by nature with an abundant supply of ground water," he said. "We have sunk in recent years in Nebraska approximately 25,000 irrigation wells irrigating about 1,700,000 acres of land in the state.

"Now our problem in that connection is whether by overconcentration of wells in a given community, we may withdraw more water in the area than movement (of underground water) will restore."

Jurisdiction Problem

Peterson touched on another problem, likely to be discussed at the convention as it has been in past years — the question of state versus federal jurisdiction over water rights.

The 17 reclamation states of the west have united in support of the theory that the individual obtains his rights from the state and not from the federal government. The question still is before Congress.

Peterson said scientific studies have indicated that possibly one billion acre feet of untapped water lie in the deeper and as yet untapped formations laid down east of the present Rocky Mountains —enough water to cover Nebraska to a depth of 20 feet if it were to be brought to the surface at one time.

"The ultimate question," Peterson said, "is: 'how much can we afford to spend for water.' The answer is: "that depends on how thirsty you are.' "

The annual joint convention opened Wednesday with meetings of the irrigation association legislative committee and the meetings of the two resolutions committees.

Highlights of Thursday sessions include reports on ground water and on water resources, and forums on water law and on water with relation to crops and economics.

The reclamation association will hold its business meeting Thursday afternoon and the annual banquet will be Thursday night with an address by Floyd E. Dominy of Washington, D.C., commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation.

The Nebraska Irrigation Assn. will hold its business session Friday morning and the remainder of the forenoon will be taken up with further discussions of water problems.

Laselle E. Coles of Prineville, Ore., president of the National Reclamation Assn., will address the closing luncheon session.

Christmas Trees Are Available At Halsey Forest

Halsey — "Again this year you can cut your own Christmas tree on the Bessey division of the Nebraska National Forest, west of Halsey," according to Lloyd D. Todd, district ranger.

Ponderosa pine and eastern red cedar are available at a moderate price, the ranger said. Permits will be available at the Bessey division office through Dec. 23.

Todd explained the Christmas tree cutting is not destructive, but gives needed room for neighboring trees to grow faster and better.

4-Lane Stretch To Air Base Road Opens

A 4-lane stretch of paving leading to the south entrance road of the Lincoln Air Force Base will be open to traffic Thursday, beginning at 9 a.m.

The State Department of Roads said the 4,000-foot stretch from West O to the base road represents the first phase of construction of an interchange on Interstate Highway 80 west of Lincoln.

The second phase will consist of construction of the Interstate overpass over the air base segment and the 3rd will be grading and ramps.

These phases, which are under contract, are scheduled for completion next year.

Acting Deputy State Engineer G. C. Strobel said construction of the new paving was begun Oct. 24 and the air base road was served by a black-top detour during its construction.

Another interchange, connecting with West O, is under contract about a mile east of the base entrance interchange, he said.

WEATHER AHEAD

Temperatures for the five day period, Thursday through Monday, should average near the seasonal normal in central Nebraska to 5 to 9 degrees below seasonal normal in the eastern portion of the state. No large day to day changes of temperature are expected. Normal lows are forecast at 14 degrees in the western portion rising to 17 degrees in the east, and normal highs at 36 east to 40 degrees west. Little precipitation is expected.

$112,380 Spent In Nebraska For Heart Research

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Heart Assn., in its annual report, said $112,380 was spent for research projects in Nebraska and in support of the American Heart Assn.'s research program.

Nebraska research projects in the last year were carried on by 20 scientists and two medical schools, the association said. Two grants supported professorships in cardiovascular research to further work on the causes and cures of heart and blood vessel diseases.

The 1960 heart fund campaign raised $222,161, the report said.

Moon Fooled U.S. Defense On Missiles

Omaha (AP) — The Strategic Air Command said Wednesday the moon fooled electronic defense gadgetry into flashing a warning of a missile attack.

But a quick check proved the error and there was no alert of SAC's world-wide bomber and missile force, a spokesman said.

The previously unreported incident occurred Oct. 5. SAC said computers at the ballistics missile early warning system (BMEWS) station at Thule, Greenland, mistook the signals received for a missile approaching the U.S. from Russia.

The signal was flashed on a locater screen in SAC's underground control center. A quick check disclosed the error almost immediately — "in less than 60 seconds" — the SAC spokesman said.

Nobody touched the red telephone, the SAC war room's direct contact with its units around the world, the spokesman said.

SAC said there are several optional plans that might have been followed had there been reason to think the alert was real, any one of them short of sending the bomber and missile fleet to war.

Anyway, the spokesman said, SAC commanders have made it clear one enemy missile isn't going to result in the launching of the SAC force.

The story came to light after a British paper, the Manchester Guardian, reported a similar incident had taken place last week. SAC said, however, the only recent incident was Oct. 5.

Slaughter Mark In October Down

Livestock slaughtered commercially in Nebraska during October totaled 280,253,000 pounds, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Wednesday.

The total was down about 3.6 million pounds from the previous month, and down about 8.6 million pounds from October of last year.

For the first 10 months of 1960, the slaughter has totaled 2,773,041,000 pounds, or 4% more than in the same period last year.

Cattle slaughtered in Nebraska during October numbered 185,000 head, or 8% more than in the same month last year.

Hogs butchered totaled 329,000 head, down 100,000 from last year.

Time Extension On Omaha Sewer Project Wanted

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council and representatives of the U.S. Public Health Service will meet with Omaha officials Dec. 21.

Public Works Director George J. Fischer said the meeting will be to talk over Omaha's request for a time extension on construction of the city's south interceptor sewer.

Fischer said Omaha is meeting its timetable on cleaning up the Missouri River with the exception of the sewer line. He said the city wants at least two years to plan financing of the $5 million interceptor.

Just exactly who is at fault in the current study of Lincoln's Interstate access route is a little difficult to determine but unfavorable precedents are being set. This week, the State Highway Department, University of Nebraska, Chamber of Commerce, Federal Bureau of Roads and interested property owners met to discuss the question of where the access would be located.

Apparently, the meeting was called by the Chamber of Commerce and was held in that group's office facilities. Now, the Chamber is a private organization and it has a right to call all the meetings it wants and exclude or include from the meeting whomever it pleases. Likewise, the property owners involved in this issue are free to do as they please on the subject. But such freedom does not extend to the University of Nebraska, the State Highway Department or the Federal Bureau of Roads. Their business is public business and they should be more careful than they have been this week to see to it that things are done in this manner.

Strictly Public

It is true that this week's access route meeting was not called by any of them. But the meeting did result in a discussion of facts relating to the access route that are of important public concern. These facts are just as important to the general public as they are to involved property owners or the Chamber of Commerce. No one has any quarrel with the Chamber but its interests and rights are no more or less than those of the individual citizens of Lincoln and the state.

Whatever information is available to the Chamber of Commerce should be available to the general public but no information of any consequence was released on this week's meeting and the press was denied attendance at the meeting. This is not the kind of thing that leads to an informed public.

It is not a question of the good intentions of the Chamber but what that group considers a laudable objective might be considered just the opposite by someone else. With Chamber participation in the preliminary discussions and planning for the access route, its point of view is given an emphasis and importance denied that of any other interests. The public bodies involved in this question cannot hide behind the fact that this week's meeting was called by the Chamber of Commerce.

On that basis, the newspapers, Lincoln retail groups, the Lincoln Traffic Commission or even any private citizen could call a meeting at which the University, Federal Bureau of Roads and State Highway Department could be called upon to present all the facts they know relative to the present access problems. If this week's Chamber meeting was in order, then a meeting called by anyone else would be in order and the public bodies involved would be dutybound to respond.

Obviously, such a state of affairs would be ridiculous but it points out the error of such meetings as the one held this week at the Chamber. One of the big problems with too many public bodies is their mistaken idea that special interests are entitled to information denied the general public.

The Chamber of Commerce is certainly free to solicit from any public body whatever information on any subject that interests it. But whatever that organization is free to obtain should be obtainable by anyone asking the same questions. The alternative is a slow eroding away of the rights of the average citizen.

Shuffling Facts

There is little doubt, none in fact, that what is finally decided on the access problem will be made public. No one would want to keep it secret and couldn't anyway but that isn't the whole point of things. To make an intelligent judgment of a decision, more information is needed than the final answer. A student who learns the answers to problems but doesn't know how the answer was arrived at has nothing at all. In final decisions a great many important preliminaries can be covered up or just never come to the surface because of the lack of open and intelligent discussion. Facts can too easily be made to fit the circumstances if there is any desire to do so and this is not constructive government.

The people involved in the Chamber meeting this week are not suspected of trying to pull a fast one on anybody but the meeting was a precedent that should be abolished before it goes any further. Not only that, but the Highway Department still has an obligation to make the facts of this meeting as available to all people as they are to the Chamber. Information the state considers private is private to everyone, including the Lincoln Chamber.

Well To Understand

It would be a wonderful thing if the entire world could fully understand the debate now going on in the United Nations. Colonialism seems to be the subject of discussion as member nations debate the admission of new nations to the organization. The Soviet Union has long denounced the United States and her allies as colonialist capitalists whose only objective was to imprison the people of other nations.

But there has been little effort to make the rest of the world understand the kind of ruthless colonialism practiced by the Russians. The Russians can claim acceptance of their form of government by captive nations because there is no way out for these nations. The people of eastern Europe accept the Red way of life or death and that is a pretty grim alternative.

Under communism all the freedoms by which men can make themselves heard are denied without a thought. When the Hungarians attempted to throw off the yoke of communism, they were simply shot down in their tracks. Naturally, this has led them to accept communism but only for so long as there is no other hope for them. The fact is that there is no freedom of any kind under Communist rule and that is the reason for its acceptance.

Under a democracy there is a standing invitation to all people to make a change in things whenever they deem it advisable. It is only natural that under such a system there would be the appearance of uneasiness and disorder because such a state of affairs is openly permitted. What the Communists say, in effect, is that a man tied and gagged is happy and content because no complaints are heard from him. It is hoped the newly emerging nations of the world come to understand the meaning of Russian freedom and their expressions of lofty ideals.

Better Strike Handling Needed

The recommendation of a committee of the National Council of Churches for new federal legislation to place the president in a more effective position to treat with strikes affecting the national welfare is both pointed and timely.

A reasonable period of time and sufficient tests, especially that of the 116 day steel strike in 1959, give evidence that the procedures of the Taft-Hartley act are inadequate. This act relies largely on injunctive methods for providing an 80-day cooling off period and on examination of the issues of the labor management disagreement. The Taft-Hartley act does not provide for compulsory settlement nor is it probable that future legislation will go that far.

But the 1959 steel strike especially showed the weakness of the limited position of the president and since the president could do little more than act for an 80-day cooling off period there was evidence that the fact offered a method by which the controversy could be manipulated to the advantage of the participants. It lent itself, therefore, as a weapon for strife rather than a means for preventing strife.

Moreover, such inquiry as was conducted by the Department of Labor in the 1959 strife did not clarify the public mind on the true issues and their relative strength. The public did not get to weigh the question on its merits nor to throw the weight of public opinion in a positive manner on the side of the general welfare.

It would be an improvement if new legislation gave to the president a variety of courses of action, for such flexibility could end the improper use of federal intervention as a tactical weapon for the participants. And greatly more could be provided to strengthen the government's position in getting to the hard core of a labor dispute.

The Case Of Mauritania

Soviet Russia cast a resounding vote against the admission of Mauritania into the United Nations and the western world was stirred with questions. The first one was not why did the Russians act so ungraciously. Rather it was, who or what is Mauritania? All of which shows what becomes of past glory if a nation fails to keep up its payments.

Mauritania is largely a piece of rather dry land on the northwest coast of Africa, 322,310 square miles with a density of approximately one person per square mile, that is, 383,100 persons as of the 1936 census. It is bounded by the Atlantic ocean, South Algeria, the Spanish river of Oro, the French Sudan and Senegal. Its land surface is a mixture of mountains, at least one lush valley, and a dash of the Sahara desert. The people are what you get by mixing Arabs with Berbers and Negroes, baked several hundred years in a hot oven of French colonialism. Mauritania was only recently liberated, being one of its possessions France could let loose of without serious loss. It strains the reason to figure out why Russia should show such a strong distaste for such an inoffensive and impotent little nation unless it hates, as a matter of principle, any society whose assets and liberties are not worth stealing.

It was not always thus. Along about the turn of the first century Mohammed awakened the Arab people with the Moslem faith. And being surrounded by disciples who were handy with the scimitar an Arab empire ensued, extending across the Near East, into Africa, through Egypt and up the coast toward Europe. In time it became a very sophisticated civilization giving oranges, algebra, advanced medical science and irrigation, among other things, to the world. The Moors developed into the strong people who ably upheld the left flank of the infinitely long Arab line. They ultimately crossed over and conquered a great deal of Spain where for several hundred years they provided a fiery challenge to non-Moslem Europe. They inspired our popular song Granada, and left a fine monument to their culture in the Alhambra.

The Arabian empire finally caved in as all empires and civilizations do, and the world no longer regards the relics. Reference to the Moors once made the world tremble. Now many people are so distant from that past they consider Mauritania to be the name of a Cunard steamship.

Phillips-Union Oil Merger Questioned

WASHINGTON—More facts regarding one of the biggest oil-company battles of modern times—the drive by Phillips Petroleum, which helps the Democrats, to take over Union Oil of California,which is strongly Republican.

Clark Clifford, liaison man for President-elect Kennedy, is attorney for Phillips and Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, wealthiest man in the Senate, is Phillips' great and good friend.

The Federal Trade Commission which had been working on the big oil-company war, has now surrendered it to the Justice Department. But before it did so, it found that Phillips had been buying up Union's stock secretly, beginning as early as April 1959. Phillips managed to snatch in the amazing total of 1,039,400 shares, or 12 per cent of Union, before forced to reveal this fact on May 6, 1960 with the filing of a report before the SEC.

Though Phillips claimed its raid was for "investment purposes," it's now disclosed that W. W. Keeler, executive vice president of Phillips, approached A. C. Rubel, then president of Union, in February 1959, proposing a merger.

Union Oil, whose vice president has been Herbert Hoover Jr., was so anxious not to be taken over by the oil giant that it considered filing an antitrust action against Phillips itself, later approached the Justice Department to take action. The Justice Department, after considerable delay, now has the case under consideration.

Note—Clark Clifford, one of the ablest and most versatile lawyers in Washington, not only represents Phillips, but has also represented Howard Hughes, who made that $205,000 secret loan to Don Nixon. Collateral for the loan was a lot on Whittier boulevard, owned by the vice president's mother, on which Union Oil had given the Nixon family a favorable filling-station lease.

Arizona Gains Political Heft

WASHINGTON—The special federal interests of states west of the Mississippi are concentrated in the Interior Department, as President-elect John Kennedy has acknowledged in his choice of Rep. Stewart Udall of Arizone for Interior secretary.

Extra dividends, legislative and political, accrue to the choice of Udall.

He has been a tenacious, hard fighter for liberal legislation against the conservative House coalition. It has few surprises in its armory to use against him and experience has taught him the ways it uses to gain the ends it seeks. His associates like him and his opponents respect the manner in which he walks steadily down the side of the street he has chosen.

Udall showed his political mettle when he moved into the Arizona pre-convention maneuvering by friends of Sen. Lyndon Johnson and captured the state delegation for Kennedy. Thus Kennedy gets both credit for paying a political debt and also the comfortable assurance that he has a heavyweight working for him.

The fact that Udall is an Arizona Mormon is also a counter-punch at the most prominent Arizona Republican, Sen. Barry Goldwater, a right-winger who has been seeking to establish himself as the conservative spokesman of his party. Goldwater is the favorite of much of the Arizona press, but it cannot ignore any secretary of the Interior.

Few states — possibly none — exceed Arizona in the importance and extent of its federal connections. This is a paradox of Goldwater's present role in American politics and one that Udall will now be in a position to explore.

For many years the venerable senior senator, Democrat Carl Hayden, has all but pre-empted Arizona's federal-state connections from his powerful place as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. A shrewd but gentle and retiring man, Hayden has a special place in the affections of his colleagues.

Udall is the heir-apparent to Hayden's seat when and as it becomes vacant. His new job is both a challenge to his own abilities and a chance to build his stature at home.

President-elect Kennedy is aware that he did not prove an asset to his party in some states of the West and Midwest because of his youth and religion. It was a particular blow as the vast unpopularity of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson had been a Democratic asset and a major factor in a Democratic surge in the former Republican heartland.

Following the election Kennedy telephoned a number of the Democratic losers and frankly discussed the situation with them. He said he was grateful for their efforts and would cooperate in every possible way to rebuild the party in their areas.

It is therefore to be expected that some of them will be appearing in his administration in more or less prominent places. What he seems intent on, however, are men of proved skills on the legislative battleground. For he has no illusions that his path will be much easier in domestic affairs than in foreign policy.

The selection of a successor of Benson, for example,, is one of the hard ones. It is being cleared with planners and executors as well. It is also of great importance to the South, and the Southerners who stood by the victor Nov. 8th are being fully consulted.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What can I eat that will get rid of calcium? X-rays showed bunches and bunches of it growing between the neck bones, and it affects my left shoulder and arm and both hands. — M. M. M."

Calcium is a much-maligned element. Much misunderstood. Saying you "want to get rid of calcium" is about like saying that you "want to get rid of blood" because you've cut your finger and it's bleeding. It's the wound, not the blood of which you wish to be rid.

Dr. Molner

So it is with calcium. Calcium is necessary to your health and well-being. If, because of some injury or condition, calcium accumulates in a given spot, don't blame the element. Blame whatever happened to cause the calcium to accumulate.

Your case sounds like the sort of thing that can happen when there is some degeneration of bones in the neck. The "bunches" may turn out to be a thickening of the edges of the vertebrae. This sort of thing can develop (usually after 40), and by pinching various nerve branches, cause discomfort in the arms or hands.

It is true, to be sure, that bones contain large amounts of calcium, but that doesn't mean that by getting rid of calcium you will get rid of the particular portions of bone that are causing trouble.

Neither does it follow that by deliberately eating a diet deficient in calcium you can prevent such thickening of the bones. Not with safety, at any rate, for calcium is required for multiple purposes. An important calcium need is in the healing of any sort of wound, whether a nicked finger or a bruise.

There is nothing anyone can eat to get rid of calcium, and there isn't any known diet that will control thickening of bony structures of the body.

On the other hand, when thickening of bones in the neck causes distress, the use of neck traction (a head halter) usually provides relief by separating slightly the bones that are pressing too closely together.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How does one quit smoking? I have read so many articles about cancer, and I am in great fear of it. It makes me nervous not to smoke as I am a nervous, high-strung person.—T. C."

Who isn't? The person who succeeds in quitting smoking is the one who doesn't make excuses, but admits that he's about like everybody else, and decides that will power is the only first-class answer. For most of us, it's a matter of quit or don't quit. I've known a few who had the great fortitude to reduce to no more than two or three smokes a day. Curiously, I never heard any of them explain that it was "because I'm not high-strung and nervous."

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please answer this for five high school girls in their 16th year. We have all been trying to lose weight but couldn't until we learned of a drug that takes away our appetite. When we have lost as much as we want, we will stop taking it. — Anxious Five (per J. H.)"

Personally I wonder how much bad influence is contained in modern fashion photography — pictures of models who are, by virtue of starvation, so skinny that practically nobody can wear the clothes they model. High school girls by the hundreds ruin their naturally beautiful, lithe figures by trying to be bony, too.

Anyway, girls, if in high school you have to rely on drugs to kill your healthy, normal appetites, what's it going to be like when you are in the 20's or 30's? It's going to be murder! Better rely on learning to eat just enough to keep a good figure, now, than to start leaning on drugs. Drugs, however "safe," demand a price. You'll pay a price in being dependent on them, and pay a price in tootense nerves. I say, flatly but beseechingly: Quit this monkey business!

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about flat feet. My daughter is four. I have had her in orthopedic shoes for two years. Some people tell me that's the thing to do, and others say have her feet X-rayed and plaster casts made for her arches. Still others say she'll outgrow the problem.—Mrs. S. S."

Most children have flat feet early in life. The curve of the arch develops as they grow older. There's no rule you can apply, by yourself, to know when a foot is too flat. The correct evaluation comes only after one has had special training and seen some hundreds of thousands of cases.

I do say, however, that a good many persons specializing in children's shoes are very useful in telling customers which children ought to be taken to the doctor for an expert opinion.

Orthopedic shoes, if they are really needed, often do an excellent job. Sometimes a child is well past four before the arch begins to develop properly. But the question of whether to use such shoes or not isn't to be decided on the basis of what somebody tells you. Decide it on the basis of what your pediatrician or an orthopedic specialist says.

"Dear Dr. Molner: A persistent lump has formed inside my right ear lobe. Should I have it checked for cancer? I am 17, if the age makes a difference.—A.M."

My friend, if at 17 you will accept from me one piece of advice, it will give you great comfort for many years. Don't "have a lump checked for cancer." Have a lump checked to see what it is!

The probability is that a lump such as you describe is a cyst, requiring removal only for the sake of appearance, if it is that big. In short, for cosmetic reasons.

Any lump MAY be a cancer. But the majority of lumps are not.

Dr. Molner is always glad to hear from his readers, and whenever possible he uses their question in his column, but because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, he cannot answer individual letters.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Russia Assuming Press Agent Role

NEW YORK — It seems a pitiful commentary on the perceptive powers of the American public when, so often, our young artists must be "discovered" in other lands — particularly in Russia — before they are nationally noticed here.

It happened to Pianist Van Cliburn in 1959. It's happening to Violinist Joyce Flissler now.

Two weeks ago in Tschaikovsky Hall, Moscow, Joyce was stampeded with affection — took 25 curtain calls.

And now, only now, she is being noticed here. Signed by a big concert management company. Guest-starred on the Ed Sullivan show. Admired and respected by Americans who have yet to hear her play, who three weeks ago had never heard her name.

"I'm not bitter, I think it's wonderful," she says delightedly. "It's the original Cinderella story; you go to the ball with nothing, and you come home with anything you want."

☆ ☆ ☆

Miss Flissler is a brilliant young violinist who nine years ago graduated from Julliard School of Music. She had won the coveted Loeb Memorial Prize. Great violinists Szigeti and Oistrakh considered her "the finest" and told her so. She dreamed, quite naturally, of a successful concert future, a recording career, possibly some choice television assignments.

But the dreams of American women violinists have little more reality than the dreams of bowery derelicts. In those nine years, Miss Flissler played two town hall recitals which attracted critical acclaim, while the public stayed home watching "Gunsmoke."

If it had not been for the steady employment of her husband, Ralph Mendelson, a violinist with the New York Philharmonic, Joyce and their two children might have been starved for everything but culture.

"Then two years ago I went to Russia," she recalls, "to play in the Tschaikovsky competition. Well, that's where Van (Cliburn) took first prize. I was seventh in the violin competition — the top prize from the Western world. Here in the States, being seventh would not be much of an honor perhaps, but the Russians don't seem to care where you are placed. They call you a 'laureate' of the competition. What a lovely word!"

☆ ☆ ☆

So Joyce, who is tall and slim and attractive, was urged to make a concert tour in Russia. She couldn't. Plain homesick for her family.

When she saw the acclaim awarded Cliburn after his "triumphal return," Joyce decided she'd go back one day. Obviously the Russians, without knowing it, are wondrous press agents for American artists.

So this year, when the Moscow ministry of culture urged her to come back and tour, Joyce did. She paid her own way over: they paid her way back. And she wowed them, as good American talent usually does. They made her play seven encores. The ovation after her concert lasted nearly an hour.

"It cost me money to make that trip," she concedes, "but it paid me very well — in caviar and, I hope, a new career."

Joyce doesn't understand why, exactly, American audiences need to "be told, by Europeans or Russians," that one of their own artists is worthwhile. But she supposes it is because our country is young, and doesn't quite trust its judgment, whereas other lands have centuries of experience in criticizing and appreciating the arts.

☆ ☆ ☆

"In Russia music is a part of everybody's life. It's an escape. They lead such comparatively drab lives," she laughed, recalling "a little Russian woman who came backstage to see me. She didn't mention my violin. She said, 'I'll never forget the sea green gown you wore when you were here before and the silver slippers. I'll never forget."

"I think, really, they appreciate beauty in any form. And we are so spoiled because here, beauty is everywhere."

Joyce says Premier Khrushchev said, when he met her, "You see, when we have culture, we don't need governments."

She laughed. "Much as I love music," Joyce said, "I think that was going too far. I'm glad to be home."

Air Force Turns Down 'Alternate' Field

By Virgil Falloon

A second application by United Air Lines to use the Lincoln Air Force Base as a "provisional alternate field" for its jet aircraft has been turned down by Air Force Headquarters.

A United Air Lines source confirmed this report Wednesday.

The denial reportedly also stated that Lincoln Air Force Base "will not be approved for any type of civil jet aircraft operations."

This was speculated as either a policy change or an error in the communication as previously there had been no hint that use of the runway for regularly scheduled flights would be disapproved.

An alternate field is one with necessary support equipment and facilities where planes, including jets, could land if unable to reach their destination because of weather or other reason.

Expressing surprise, Airport Authority Chairman Leo Beck Jr. said it was "not my understanding that scheduled jet flights would be involved in the denial."

Will Discuss

"However," he added, "it's a matter the authority will definitely discuss."

Although United is asking only for alternate field designation now at Lincoln for transcontinental jet flights, the air line expects to be using Lincoln as a regular stop by late 1961 or early 1962 in transition to jet airliners from piston-driven aircraft.

Rolland Harr, the authority's executive director, said the reported decision would affect jet service to Omaha, leaving the city without an alternate field closer than Chicago or Denver.

United's first application for an alternate field at the base was turned down about 5 months ago.

'Not Policy'

The Air Force's stated reason then was that it wasn't the Strategic Air Command's policy to allow commercial jets to use its bases as alternate fields.

It was speculated by some sources that the latest reported policy might change with the new Washington administration next January and that United would reapply again in the near future.

Sources also noted that a proposed joint-use agreement between the Air Force and the authority in the proposed construction of a second-runway at LAFB might also affect the denial.

The proposed agreement would place all piston-driven aircraft, including commercial airliners, on the runway, thus clearing the LAFB jet runway for all-jet traffic and fewer commercial flights.

Neither the proposed second runway nor the once-proposed $3.5 million municipal airport east of the city could accommodate jet aircraft. It is estimated a new jet field could cost upwards of $5 million.

Sjogren Estate Is Valued $200,000

The estate of the late Hazel M. Sjogren of Lincoln was valued at $201,435.63, according to County Court records.

Mrs. Sjogren died May 6, 1959.

Major items in the estate included 221 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. valued at $54,697.50 and 290 shares of DuPont De Nemours valued at $72,101.25.

The bulk of Mrs. Sjogren's estate was left to her son, George Clayton Kellog of San Mateo, Calif.

'Bare Walls' At Capitol Slated For Consideration

Gov. Dwight Burney plans to reactivate the Capitol Mural Commission to "fill in the blank spaces on the walls" at the Statehouse.

Nine barren concrete panels overlook the north vestibule and hallway of the Capitol's main floor.

The commission hasn't held a meeting since the last two murals in the rotunda were dedicated in 1956.

Burney said he will make appointments soon to fill two vacancies on the 9-member commission.

Maria Callas Successfully Returns To La Scala Opera

Milan, Italy (AP)—Maria Callas made a successful—but less than triumphant—return to La Scala Wednesday night after a 2½-year absence due to feuding with the opera house management.

The fiery American soprano kept her temper under control except for a brush with news photographers on stage during an intermission.

She received a tremendous ovation when she first appeared, before singing a note.

Applause of the season-opening audience testified to her dramatic and singing success in "Poliuto," but there was none of the wild acclaim afterward that had marked the 37-year-old soprano's previous performances here.

Nevertheless, she and the rest of the cast got a total of 28 curtain calls after the three acts.

Miss Callas' return ended her quarrel with Antonio Ghiringhelli, superintendent of La Scala.

"Antonio, Antonio," cried the temperamental diva when Ghiringhelli appeared backstage after the performance. "How happy I am."

Her warm greeting was in sharp contrast to her split with Ghiringhelli 30 months ago. They had quarrelled over several things. Miss Callas complained she did not like the date selected for one performance. She said Ghiringhelli wanted her to apologize to the management of the Edinburgh Music Festival in 1957 when she refused to give a fourth performance there and went to a party in Venice instead. She claimed her Edinburgh contract called for only 3 performances.

The critic of the Corriere Della Sera said Miss Callas appeared to surpass herself in Wednesday night's performance. But La Notte, another Milan newspaper, said that while she was good the two male leads, tenor Franco Corelli and baritone Ettore Bastiani, "were even better."

Miss Callas, who has feuded with opera managements over the world — Rome, Milan, New York, San Francisco and elsewhere — on mainly artistic grounds, has a determined fan following.

On her first appearance the glittering audience cheered for 30 seconds and the upper galleries — where the most uninhibited fans sit —kept up the din of "brava, brava" and "viva Callas" so long that the orchestra had to stop.

It was a night of expectancy. There was talk of a new Callas. But the letdown was not long in coming.

Miss Callas got off to an uncertain start. She seemed nervous, and to be forcing her voice. She did not hit any wrong notes, but her voice was dull and without its usual sparkle.

Several spectators murmured, but after the first ripple of restlessness the audience quieted down.

In the second act she regained confidence, and acted and sang brilliantly. The audience cheered her at the end. Someone threw a bouquet of flowers.

On her way back to the dressing room after the final curtain calls, the soprano was beaming and happy.

"I'm so happy I don't even know where I am," she said. "I suffered in silence for this comeback. The hand of God has been at my side, and now I know that the public still likes me."

SUPRA-DENOMINATION CHURCH BID DIES

San Francisco (AP) — A move to give the National Council of Churches some rights as a sort of supra-denomination church died aborning Wednesday.

The proposal suggested allowing the council to commission ministers either lay or ordained, administer the sacraments and enroll congregations.

At present the council, an interdenominational body carrying on cooperative work for most of the nation's major protestant and orthodox churches, has none of the ecclesiastical prerogatives of an actual church.

The proposal, put before a committee session at the council's triennial general assembly, would have urged member denominations to consider the possibility of giving the council added functions recognizing its "churchly character."

A majority overwhelmingly rejected the idea. However, the move reflected mounting sentiment voiced here for some means to establish unity among America's denominationally divided protestantism.

The action came as an assorted multitude of Christians struggled to find a common voice.

It involved repeated meetings, long discussions, the clash and melding of views, occasional irritation, much prayer, much patience and much give-and-take.

The sensitive operation was going on at the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches, as a broad cross-section of American Christianity sought to frame its central message for these times.

What should churches say? What are the major concerns of the hour on which their ancient faith might shed some light? Could they give a unified answer to specific modern problems?

Delegates represent 33 denominations with 40 million members, most of the nation's major protestant and orthodox churches.

And they also represent a wide range of political, economic, cultural and theological views. There are so-called liberals, conservatives, fundamentals, teetotalers, Southerners, Northerners, black, white, the cautious and the crusaders.

One thing binds them together: belief in Christ's sovereignty over all life as "Divine Lord and Savior."

Out of that bond, and despite their peripheral differences, they seek to speak as one to shed the light of their faith on the modern issues of man.

—1960 OUTLOOK—

Major Ag Decisions Are Looming

By Ovid A. Martin

Washington (AP)—The year 1961 may be one of major decisions for agriculture.

It brings into power an administration committed to stronger measures to raise farm prices and income. The latter is running about 25% below levels many farm leaders contend farmers deserve.

Without further government action, the new year probably would be about the same as 1960. Economists say production and marketing factors probably would keep farm income at this year's level of slightly more than $11 billion. In the post-war period, it climbed to nearly $17 billion.

Look For Bumper Yields

The experts look for continued heavy sales and disposal of crops and livestock products abroad. They also foresee continued bumper crops, assuming of course the weather is normal.

Consumers' incomes as a whole are expected to be somewhat higher for 1961 then for 1960, thus putting a firm foundation under the demand for food.

The new year, like its immediate predecessors, will bring additional technological advances. Farm families are expected to turn more and more to opportunities elsewhere to supplement incomes.

There is no letup in sight in the high cost of farm production. Tractors, harvesters and other farm supplies are expected to hold strong in price. Farm wage rates continue to advance; so do taxes. These costs figure strongly in a leveling off of a long boom in land prices.

Cattle Population Climbs

The year could bring new price troubles for the livestock segment of agriculture. Cattle numbers have been climbing to levels which already have weakened prices. A further decline appears likely this year.

Hog production is on a new expansion cycle. Lower hog prices are expected next fall. Lower egg prices also may be in store.

The new administration is expected to ask Congress to take immediate action to offset some of the depressing agricultural factors.

During the campaign, Sen. John F. Kennedy promised if elected to signal an about-face on the Eisenhower administration policy of getting government out of agriculture and of reducing farm price supports.

Kennedy contended the only way to improve conditions on the farm was to invoke rigid production controls designed to strengthen prices and in turn to put more money into farmers' pockets.

He also promised broadened programs to help the needy at home and abroad—steps designed to siphon off some of the price depressing food surpluses.

A big question, however, is what will Congress do? Will it go along?

The fact that most Midwest farm states went against Kennedy in the election may strengthen opponents of his farm proposals.

Feed Warning

College Station, Tex. (UPI)—Farmers who insist on feeding frosted Johnson grass or sorghum to livestock before the feed is dry could harm their cattle seriously, Texas A&M College veterinarian Dr. C. M. Patterson warns. Patterson said Johnson grass and sorghum are sometimes extremely high in prussic acid content after a frost.

Auto Industry Fell Short Of '60 Goals

. . . But Finished With Second Best Sales Year

By Ben Phlegar
AP Automotive Writer

Detroit (AP)—The auto industry fell short of its goals in 1960, but still wound up with its second best sales year. Uncertainty apparently lies ahead.

Final figures will show sales of about 6.5 million passenger cars, 6 million of them American made. But dealers go into the new year with their largest winter supplies of unsold cars in history, a fair sprinkling of them 1960 models. Total inventories are only a fraction shy of all time records.

While the hoped-for sales explosion never came, things popped on several other fronts in the industry.

Switch In Officers

Chrysler, Ford and Studebaker-Packard changed top officers, Chrysler in spectacular fashion.

Anti-management forces sued Chrysler and most of its top officials, charging gross mismanagement. Chrysler, in turn, sued for libel.

Five new car names were introduced, all of them in the compact field. One old-line make, the DeSoto, was discontinued after years of rumors as to its fate.

Chevrolet ran away with the individual sales race after bowing to Ford in 1959. Imports dropped off for the first time since they made their original splash in the mid-50s.

It was a year when "compact" and "economy" were the key words. Standard size cars slimmed down. Prices held steady to fractionally lower. Corporation profits generally were less than the year before.

26.2% Were Compacts

Production in the 1960 model year totaled 6,011,287 passenger cars compared with 5,567,000 in 1959. Compact cars, 3 of which were first introduced with the 1960 model year, accounted for 26.2% of all production. The year before less than 10% were compacts.

The new ones at the start of 1960 were Falcon, Corvair and Valiant. They were joined in March by Comet. The 1961 model year brought Tempest, Lancer, Special and F-85. Calendar year production of these 8 plus Rambler and Lark, the previous smaller makes, totaled about 2.5 million.

The economy trend was further emphasized by the increasing choice of 6-cylinder engines instead of V-8s (43.5% of 1960 models compared with 28% in 1959) and manual transmission (up from 24.1% to 27%).

Lots Of Bales

Mexico City (AP) — Mexico's 1960 cotton crop is expected to total 1.9 million bales, the government reports.

AGED LAUGH CHIEF RAPS NEW COMEDY

Hollywood (UPI) — Old "fire chief" Ed Wynn says present day laugh getters don't have to be funny in "this new era of comedy."

Speaking about young performers like Bob Newhart, Mort Sahl, Joey Bishop and others, Ed explained that they don't follow a traditional theater concept of comedy.

"Each one of them can make you laugh, but they're not funny men," explained the 74-year-old Ed.

Difference

"If I gave Sahl and Red Skelton a story about a seagull you would hear Mort tell the joke, but you'd watch Red," he added. "You see, Red would become a seagull and you'd watch him laugh before he reached the point of the joke.

"Red is saying things funny and the others are saying funny things. There's a difference. Today, many comedians just stand up and do a monologue."

Recalling the days in 1902 when he started, Ed discussed various changes that have occurred in comedy since then.

Essential

"There's nothing so essential for the contentment of a nation as amusement," he claimed. "And, the quintessence of amusement is laughter."

Talking about limits that have been placed on comics in the last half century, he said, "the transition that took place since then has been tremendous."

Wynn, who says "I don't think a funny man has to be risque," cited restrictions on the use of certain dialects and racial jokes.

Words Cut

"They've narrowed down the avenues from which you get laughter," he said. "There are all sorts of words you can't use.

"I'm not speaking of cleanliness or ribald material. I'm taling about subjects. I don't think Chesterfield would sponsor Winston Churchill because Winston is the name of another cigarette.

"I don't blame the sponsors, they have a right to buy what they want," he said. "But the public is being deprived of many avenues of comedy."

Don't Know

Giving examples of great who've been used up on TV series and then tossed aside at an early age, Wynn said it was the fault of those who don't know show business controlling TV production.

"The reason the really funny men are not exploited as much as they should be is that businessmen who are entering the entertainment field are amateur showmen," he said. "They're not doing this maliciously, it's from lack of experience."

Ed is of the opinion that sponsors who hold such a tight control over shows will never get what they want.

"I think what they want is impossible," he said. "They want to be all things to all men."

Central City, Colo. (AP)—In the summer performance of "A Thurber Carnival" at the Central City Play Festival, Eddie Mayehoff recited a piece about a bed falling on his father. Photog Adds Zest To Cather Works

The thinly settled prairie land of Webster County was a fascinating place for an 8-year-old girl who moved to Red Cloud, Nebraska with her family in 1884 and lived there for nearly 20 years.

It left vivid impressions of ruggedness and natural beauty in her mind . . . impressions which later immortalized in print.

Willa Cather is best remembered for the novels she wrote about the people and the old familiar places of her childhood in this new land. Her descriptions of scenes in Webster County, used in many of her novels, have now been put in pictorial form by photographer David Sherman.

His pictures, coinciding with Miss Cather's word-images, are being shown as part of an exhibit, "The World of Willa Cather," now on display at Love Memorial Library on the University of Nebraska campus.

Add Vital Life

The rustic and colorful images of early western Nebraska pictured by Sherman add vital life to the image-creating phrases of Miss Cather's novels about Webster County life in the '80s and '90s.

Take, for instance, the authoress' description of an old house from her novel, "A Lost Lady": ". . . encircled by porches, too narrow for modern notions, supported by fussy pillars of that time, when every honest stick of timber was tortured by the turning-lathe into something hideous." The image created in the mind by this fascinating description could not be far from matching the house pictured by Sherman above the passage.

The exhibit, commémorating the 87th anniversary of this famous novelist's birth, also includes several of her representative works. Among them are: "Death Comes to the Archbishop," "O' Pioneers", "My Antonia", and "The Fear That Walks by Noonday" — a rarity written by Miss Cather and Dorothy Canfield.

Bernard Kreissman, assistant director of libraries for the humanities, made the statement that Miss Cather is "probably our most outstanding Nebraska author," and "critical work on her writings is still going forward."

Along with several examples of this critical work in the exhibit are a reprint of the novelist's explanation for writing "Death Comes to the Archbishop."

Arranged by the library and the University Press, the exhibit will remain on display for two weeks.

Winter Hasn't Cut Supplies Of Foods Yet

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following guide to the nation's plentiful food buys for the week ending Dec. 3 was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

Washington (UPI)—Thrifty food shoppers will be able to find a fairly wide array of their favorite foods at markets this weekend. Wintry weather has not yet cut down supplies of many items.

The detailed report on plentiful foods for the Midwest area including Nebraska shows:

An appealing variety of fresh foods continues available to shoppers at reasonable prices this week.

Meat counters are generally featuring chuck roasts, hamburger and round steak are best buys in beef, although some of the more expensive beef cuts are also wearing attractive price tags in instances. Pork is plentiful, with hams and loin roasts rating as good choices at prevailing prices. Leg roasts are featured as a good lamb buy.

Broiler-fryer chickens are an excellent choice for poultry menus, while large size eggs are recommended as the best buy on a cost-per-pound basis.

Produce counters are well supplied with apples, cranberries, and with more oranges, grapefruit and tangerines at reasonable prices. Fresh vegetables in good supply and moderately priced include cabbage, celery, cucumbers, onions, red potatoes, radishes, Florida cucumbers, carrots and squash.

In fish, the best values are in fillets, oysters, lobsters, halibut, and yellow perch.

New Jersey cropland yields more cash per acre than that of any other state.

Peter Family Presented CD Award

Lincoln Family Gets First CD Award

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peter of 6510 Logan are shown receiving the Civil Defense Home Preparedness Gold Seal award from Mrs. Roy Sheaff (left), CD zone leader, and Mrs. David Rausten, chairman of the Lincoln CD home preparedness program. The award was the first ever presented to a Nebraska family. (Star Photo).

Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Peter of 6510 Logan, were presented the Civil Defense Home Preparedness Gold Seal award Wednesday.

Mrs. David Rausten, chairman of the Local CD home preparedness program, said the award was the first ever made to a Nebraska family.

The award is given only to families who fulfill a CD 20-point program, designed to prepare a family for possible enemy attack.

Part of the program includes setting up emergency heating, light and cooking facilities. Ample supplies of food and water, a knowledge of CD warning procedures and a host of minor precautions is also included in the program.

Small Cost

Mrs. Russell said the precautions taken have only cost the family an extra $8-10, as most of the items were already in the home.

The Russell family which includes 4 children, David, 12; Steven, 9; Linda, 7; and Dale, 6, plans to take shelter in a basement room if Lincoln is attacked. All of the precautions on hand can be pressed into use there in a matter of minutes, Mrs. Russell said.

Mrs. Rausten and Mrs. Roy Sheaff, zone leader, presented the award to the Russells.

Economists Agree Recession At Hand

. . . Too Early To Diagnose Severity

By Joe Hall

Washington (AP)—Three nongovernment economists agreed Wednesday the country was in a recession but said it was too early to tell how severe it would be.

Two government economists appearing on the same panel at a congressional hearing shied away from the word "recession" as emotion-laden.

But they said the nation's economy was in a downturn or at least a sluggish condition.

Douglas Heads Hearings

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee conducting the hearings, drew from one government witness agreement that unemployment might top 5½ million in January.

This official, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Labor Seymour L. Wolfbein, said that if the present 6.4% seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment continues, the jobless total will be 5,200,000 in January as compared with 3,579,000 in October.

But Douglas pointed out that unemployment insurance applications have been going up, indicating that the 6.4% figure will increase.

Wolfbein said this was quite possible and that, if so, the 5½ million total mentioned by Douglas for midwinter could come about.

The other government witness, Louis J. Paradiso, chief statistician of the Office of Business Economics of the Commerce Department, said that "at the present time no major forces are in sight to provide the upward thrust needed for resumption of economic growth."

Consumer Buying Sags

Unfavorable factors, he said, are a reduction in consumer buying even though personal incomes have continued to gain, a sharp housing cut, a turndown in spending by business for new plant and equipment, and a big deficit in the nation's total international balance of payments.

Charles L. Schultze, associate professor of economics at Indiana University, also said there is a recession going on now, the fourth since World War II.

Federal tax rates now are set so high and U.S. spending is so restricted that an 11-or 12-billion dollar budget surplus would be produced if the country had full employment, Schultze said.

Morrison Will Inherit Flood Control Reins

Gov. Dwight Burney said Wednesday he would leave it to his successor to take any action on recommendations of the Governor's Advisory Flood Control Committee.

A subcommittee of the committee, set up last summer by Gov. Ralph Brooks after serious spring floods, last week recommended that a new state agency be formed to start a program that would work progressively toward controling Nebraska floods over the next 40 years.

Gov. Burney said he has not yet had time to read the entire report of the committee, which was composed of an estimated 150 pages of material submitted by 10 subcommittees.

He said he would take no action on the report before turning over his office to Governor-elect Frank B. Morrison Jan. 5.

Gov. Brooks, when he charged the group last June with preventing floods and the waste of Nebraska's soil and water resources, said it "could be one of the most important committees in Nebraska in 50 years."

The work of the approximately 100 members was coordinated by Warren D. Fairchild, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Committee, and Dan S. Jones Jr., director of the State Department of Water Resources.

Among other recommendations, the report said that within one year a special agency should have guidelines for planning prepared, that within 5 years a flood warning system should be established and recommendations should be going to the Legislature for funds; that by the 15th year the most important flood control projects should be completed or under way, and by the end of the 40th year biennial revisions should be continuing to complete the program.

Foreign And Retail Trade Hit A Record

...During 1960

New York (AP)—Retail and foreign trade rang up record dollar volumes in 1960. But the picture wasn't as rosy as the figures made it seem to appear.

Merchants generally weren't able to make their profits match the sales increase.

A sharp gain in exports failed by a wide margin to correct the nation's imbalance of payments.

The Federal Reserve Board estimated retail sales at an impressive $220 billion, compared with $215.4 billion for 1959.

Caught In Squeeze

But storekeepers, big and small, were caught in a profit squeeze because of higher costs of operations.

Retail trade got much of its buoyance from sales by new car dealers and department stores. Major applainces were one of the softest spots.

The National Retail Merchants Association estimated 1960 department stores sales as 1 to 2% above the previous record of $13.6 billion in 1959.

There was a general reluctance to go out on a limb in predictions about even the early part of 1961.

Not Enough Bite

Butte, Mont. (AP) — Safecracking was as bad as pulling teeth for Butte burglars. In fact, worse. They left empty-handed after trying to crack a medical office safe with dental tools.

Stevenson, Kennedy To Visit

New York (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy will meet in Washington Thursday with Adlai E. Stevenson, who has been reported a strong contender for ambassador to the United Nations or secretary of state in the new administration.

Kennedy also will see Dean Rusk, former assistant secretary of state for the Far East and now president of the Rockefeller Foundation, who also has been mentioned as a possibility for secretary of state.

He will meet Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California and Sen. Claire Engel, D-Calif., during a busy schedule of appointments.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the president-elect's schedule for Thursday at a news conference while Kennedy was Christmas shopping here.

Kennedy will see his visitors at his home in the Georgetown section of Washington. Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania will be his lunch guest and he will see Stevenson before going to the Georgetown University Hospital Chapel for the christening of John F. Kennedy Jr.

Salinger declined to speculate on what Kennedy would discuss with Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, or the other visitors.

Salinger also declined to comment on a report that Connecticut State Democratic Chairman John Bailey was Kennedy's choice for Democratic National Chairman.

"We will have to wait until the committee meets before we can decide that," he said.

Salinger said he did not know whether Kennedy would announce any more cabinet appointments Thursday.

SPARE TIRE NOT REALLY NEEDED

JOHN BARRYMORE, BRIDE ENGAGE IN BRAWL

Rome (AP) — A face-slapping brawl in a Rome restaurant has strained if not ended the honeymoon of actor John Barrymore Jr. and the Italian film starlet he married a little more than a month ago.

Neither Barrymore, son of the famous screen star, John Barrymore, nor his wife, Gabriella Palazzoli, could be located to explain what the hassle was all about.

Barrymore had a date in court with his former fiancee, Italian actress Girogia Moll, but both were represented by attorneys.

Barrymore was in a restaurant with 7 other persons, including film star Guy Madison, when Gabriella showed up and an argument broke out.

Barrymore shoved his wife out the restaurant door and the argument continued. They exchanged slaps. Friends separated them.

Gabriella left and Barrymore went back into the restaurant where he collapsed on the floor.

He was revived but refused to be taken to a hospital. Instead he went for a walk.

When he returned to the restaurant, Gabriella was back and the argument started again. It ended for good when friends took Gabriella home.

OMAHA SCHOOL DISTRICT FILES BRIEF SUPPORTING APPEAL OF FINE MONEY

The Omaha School District filed a brief in the Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday in support of its appeal involving the distribution among school districts of the money received as fines levied by the Omaha Municipal Court for misdemeanors.

The action was started by Dennis P. Hogan Jr., a resident of the Ralston School District, No 54. Hogan said the Ralston District should receive a share of the fines in proportion to school population. The fines have in the past been given only to the Omaha School District.

The district court for Douglas County decreed that all the school districts in Douglas County should share the income from such fines on a pro rata basis according to the number of pupils in each. The Omaha district appealed to the supreme court.

W. Ross King, attorney for the Omaha District, said that legislative interpretation and practice for over 70 years of appropriating the fines to the city district "should not be abrogated in the absence of a clear constitutional provision to the contrary."

He said fines levied by the county and district courts for major offenses go to the county fund and are apportioned to all the districts, "but fines for petty offenses within the city, whether a violation of state law or city ordinance, result from police and court action by the city.

"The 26 other school districts of the county are not entitled to share in these fines and forfeitures," King said.

Action Delayed Preliminary Plat On Proposed High Cloud Addition

By Gerry Deal

The Lincoln-Lancaster County Planning Commission delayed action for 60 days on the preliminary plat of High Cloud Addition in the vicinity of 56th and High Streets.

Harold Evans, builder, appeared before the commission to present his plans for the two lots in this location.

City Engineer Carl Fisher set forth his objections to the plat in writing.

"It lies squarely in the area of the Antelope Creek Dam and considerable portions of the land involved will be actually, at times, submerged by run-off water impounded back of the dam," he said.

He also pointed out that the area would be "without access to any platted street."

'No Floods'

Evans contended that there would be no flooding difficulties and that an access road was feasible. "If this area floods, the entire city will be flooded," he said.

Planning Commissioner Douglas Brogden said that Evans had held the land and planned to build there before the Antelope Creek Dam was planned for this vicinity.

In other action, the commission postponed action on a request for a change of zone of property lying on the west side of U.S. 77 and south of the County Road immediately south of the Interstate.

The Paul Lauer Estate sought a change to a zone which would permit construction and operation of a motel.

'First Of Many'

Brogden explained this was the first of many probable requests that the city will receive for the development of business activities at the interchanges with the Interstate.

The commission delayed action until after adoption of the Regional Plan.

Commission members approved a Community Unit Plan on all of Wedgewood Manor Subdivision requested by Wedgewood Manor Inc.

The area will contain 233 single-family and 114 multiple housing units for a total of 347.

A zone change from highway business to highway commercial on the east side of 27th Street, a few hundred feet north of the Burlington tracks and west of the Chicago, Northwestern Railroad right-of-way, was also approved.

The request was made by Earl Jarrett and others.

Former Lincoln Atty. Davis 'Doing Fine'

Washington (AP)— Clarence Davis, former Lincoln attorney now practicing in Washington, was reported "doing just fine" at a hospital here Wednesday. Davis is in George Washington University Hospital for a "checkup."

He was with the U.S. Department of Interior for a time before returning to private law practice 4 years ago.

Exposure Fine $100; Man Gets Stern Warning

Melvin R. Smith of 2318 Lynn was fined $100 on an indecent exposure charge Wednesday in County Court.

Smith, 50, pleaded guilty to exposing himself to a 12-year-old girl about 6:30 a.m. Tuesday near 27th and Vine. He also admitted exposing himself to the same girl last December.

Judge Herbert A. Ronin levied the maximum fine permitted by law, and told Smith "You'd better see a physician. Don't you come back in here again!"

A Potent Wallop Means Quick Knockout

YORK, Nebr.—Mr. C. W. Hickmon, 219 W. 16th St., says: "There isn't anything that will compare with Baker's Hair Tonic for dandruff and itchy scalp. A very bad case of dandruff and itchy scalp had plagued me for years. Baker's knocked it out in short order, and I am never bothered now." It's so easy and pleasant to use. Not messy or greasy like most so-called dandruff remedies. Use it any time, anywhere. No Federal excise tax on Baker's Hair Tonic, because it's a specific for dandruff. Baker's has such a potent wallop, it is guaranteed to quickly knock out dandruff and itchy scalp, or money back. Adv.

City To Act On Suit In Boy's Death

The City Council will act Monday on an offer by Mr. and Mrs. John D. Green, 720 West Avon, who have agreed to accept $2,500 in lieu of a claim for $25,000 against the city which was denied Oct. 31.

The Greens' 4-year-old son, Donald A., drowned in a storm sewer in northeast Lincoln March 27.

Following the incident, the city placed bars across storm sewer openings.

Delay Sought

Tananarive, Malagasy (AP)— President Philibert Tsirinana wired U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold asking that political committee debate on Algeria be suspended until after the African conference in Brazzaville.

State Jobs Open For Civil Defense

Applications are now being accepted for 10 key positions in the Nebraska Civil Defense Agency, the State Merit System announced Wednesday.

Salaries for the jobs, depending on qualifications, range from $295 to $600 a month. Applications should be sent to the Nebraska Merit System, 2002 State Capitol, Lincoln 9.

Officials said the jobs open are administrative officer, operations and training officer, fiscal officer, supply officer, communications and warning officer, administrator of women's activities (a woman's job); administrator of continuity of government, medical and health coordinator, welfare coordinator and supply clerk.

The system said the jobs are to be financed with funds appropriated earlier this year by Congress.

'Hot Nose' Subs For X15 Needle

Los Angeles (AP)—They're replacing the X15's needle nose with a hot nose.

"Hot nose" is what they've dubbed a device designed to tell the rocket plane's pilot whether the X15 is sideslipping as it re-enters the earth's dense atmosphere after trips into thin air at the edge of space.

Present X15 models have a sharp, javelin-like nose. The hot nose is a cone with rounded front end.

Damp Preserve

Tavernier, Fla. (UPI) — An underwater park, the Key Largo Coral Reef Preserve, will be dedicated as a state park. The preserve is about two miles offshore. It is about 4 miles wide and 21 miles long and includes more than 75 square miles of lagoon and barrier reefs.

3,000 Parking Warnings Given

More than 3,000 warning cards have now been issued in connection with the recently adopted winter parking restrictions in residential areas.

The resolution passed by the City Council provides that cars SHALL be parked on the even numbered side of the street on even numbered days between 12:01 a.m. and 7 a.m. and on the odd numbered side of the street on odd numbered days during the same hours.

A previous story incorrectly stated that parking was prohibited during these hours on the specified days.

The restrictions do not apply in the downtown area or in areas specifically posted otherwise.

LOCATION FOR POSSIBLE NEW MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE BEING DISCUSSED

Nebraska is cooperating with Iowa in seeking a location for a possible new Missouri River bridge between South Sioux City and Sioux City, Iowa, G. C. Strobel, acting deputy state engineer, said Wednesday.

The reason is to facilitate the planning of improvements on U.S. 20 and U.S. 77 in the South Sioux City area, which are needed and will probably be built "in the reasonably near future," possibly within two to 4 years.

The new bridge, if any, will not be built so soon, Strobel said. Although the possibility of a new bridge has been discussed many times in the past few years, officials still have no idea when it would be feasible. The subject will undoubtedly crop up again in the future.

The present bridge linking Sioux City and South Sioux City has been expanded to 4 lanes to handle present traffic adequately. If the traffic increases, as it is doing all over the country, there may be an "overtraffic" situation there, but with that "you can live with for some time to come."

More important, Strobel said, are the needs of U.S. 20 west of South Sioux City, and U.S. 77 south of the city. Both should be improved, which would involve resurfacing, or possibly relocation. In the latter case, it will be important to know a tentative location of the proposed new bridge.

The U.S. 20 and U.S. 77 improvements have not yet been programmed, and there is no timetable for them, Strobel said.

W. E. Reed, Iowa engineer for the Federal Bureau of Roads, has taken the initiative in asking local officials to begin investigating a bridge location, Strobel said.

Nebraska officials have talked briefly with Iowa officials in a meeting and by telephone. Strobel said Iowa officials agreed to go into some previous surveys for an indication of "where, if, and when" the bridge should be built.

Shade Seems Right

Charlotte, N.C. (AP)—An official of a downtown bank erecting a new skyscraper building here had queries about the shade of green paint being used to cover the steel girders. The paint, he replied, is currency green.

Wine Advisory Board Says Family Life Affects Drunks

Davis, Calif. (AP) — A study sponsored by the Wine Advisory Board indicates that often-overlooked cultural and family factors may play parts in the development of alcoholism, a researcher for the organization reported Wednesday.

The findings seem to indicate, he said, that alcoholism death rates are high in areas where distilled liquors, cider and beer are the most widely used beverages, and low where wine is the most common drink.

But, he added, this conclusion falls down when applied to France, which drinks the most wine and also has the world's highest alcoholism rate and highest per capital alcohol consumption.

Yet Italy, which stands next to France in wine consumption, has the lowest alcoholism rate in Europe, he asserted.

This is where the cultural and family factors start showing, said Dr. Milton Silverman, medical research director for the board, in a faculty lecture at the University of California College of Agriculture here.

With the aid of cooperating agencies, groups of alcoholics were studied in France, Italy, Switzerland, Brazil, New York and California.

In addition, information was gathered on the drinking habits of average Italians in Italy and in an Italian-American group living near New Haven, Conn.

An inference to be drawn from the study, Dr. Silverman said, is that alcoholism is low in cultures where wine is given to youngsters at where it is regarded matter-of-factly as a food or an item of religious symbolism, and where the drunkenness of one person disgraces the whole family.

By contrast, Dr. Silverman said, French youngsters are introduced to alcohol later in life than the Italians, and sometimes in the form of distilled liquor or beer. The Frenchman's introduction to alcohol sometimes occurs away from home, and sometimes under conditions which require hearty drinking to maintain prestige.

Italians coming to America soon lose their old-country ways of drinking and tend to fit themselves into the pattern of their new communities, the researcher reported.

Estate Planning Tops Veterinarians' Day

"The wealthy man will have something left for his heirs but the man of modest means may not have enough for his family," said Lynn Hutton Wednesday.

For this reason, Hutton, speaking to the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association, told the members that "proper estate planning is necessary."

The Norfolk lawyer stressed that his "proper estate planning" is meant to mean saving taxes during the lifetime of the individual and also for his survivors.

"Groups spend too little time nowadays," he said, "on study of economic aspects important to them."

"Fifty years ago, the will was the answer to estate planning. Today the will no longer meets the needs."

He offered these additional items as supplementary to the will:

—have home in joint tenancy with spouse.
—gifts.
—short term trusts.
—family corporations.

On the same program was Dr. C. M. Elliott, University of Nebraska insurance expert. He gave the delegates his own rule of thumb for determining proper insurance coverage.

For Big Losses

"Purchase insurance for those losses that are highly improbable and that would cause great financial burden," he said.

"And don't buy insurance covering small, rather certain losses."

He explained that not adhering to this plan would raise insurance rates, pre-pay certain losses and result in great, uncovered losses.

He pointed out that many people overlook coverage simply because they don't think they have it.

"An example," he said, "were the recent panty raids at the University. After I told the girls they could recover their losses under their parents' fire protection coverage, most of them that took my advice did collect."

On the Veterinary Association agenda for Thursday are, election of officers and talks ranging from "Cow Pools and New Trends in Veterinary Practice" to "Fluid Therapy." A dance is scheduled Thursday night.

'Poorman's Bottom' Became 'Sunshine Valley' As Nebraska Grew

What's in a name?

Plenty, the way a new paperback book of the University of Nebraska Press tells it about Nebraska city, town, and place names.

Take, for instance, the meadow an honest Nebraska pioneer chose to name Poorman's Bottom. Later settlers changed it to Sunshine Valley.

There is also the intriguing town name of Wynot in Cedar county. One version is that a pioneer suggested, "Why not name it Why Not?" So they did. The other is that a German kept asking, "Why not locate the town on my place?"

The University Press' 227-page book is actually a collection from work done originally and separately by two Nebraska scholars, both of whom are now dead: Lilian L. Fitzpatrick of Lincoln, a University of Nebraska graduate student who died in 1935, and J. T. Link, a Concordia Teachers College geography teacher who died in 1936. The editing was done by G. Thomas Fairclough, a member of the University's English department staff who is now at Johns Hopkins.

According to Miss Fitzpatrick most Nebraska names can be traced to 6 general sources:

Personal Names — Such as Florence in Douglas county, named for the niece of the wife of Territorial Councilman Mitchele; or, Coleridge and Hartington in Cedar county named for a couple of English lords.

Local Features—Scottsbluff, Table Rock, Box Butte, Grand Island, and so on.

Transfers — Albion which was named after Albion, Mich., which in turn, was named after Albion, Me.; also York from York, Pa., and Madison, from Wisconsin. In this category belongs the little Hall County town of Cairo, named after the Egyptian city but pronounced by Nebraskans like the corn syrup.

Indian Names — The obvious: Omaha, Red Cloud, Ponca, Arapahoe, Ogallala, and others.

Original or Coined—Wynot would go here along with many others such as the little Seward County town of Tamora. There's dispute about Tamora. One story even has it named for a boxcar but more likely is the account that each of a handful of settlers who gave land for the townsite hoped the place would be named for him. Thus the naming was delayed, day after day ,and finally the name Tamora—a suggestion that the name would come tomorrow—stuck.

Miscellaneous — And here you can choose from many. For example, Bee, also in Seward County, presumably got the name, not from the insect but because Bee is located in "B" township. And there is Valley, originally named Platte Valley, finally, just Valley. The Johnson County town of Saint Mary was once Smartville in honor of Mr. Smart who operated the crossroad store. Or, consider Cass County's town of Eagle. It began as Eagle in 1872, got the new name of Sunlight when the town was moved a few miles, but recovered the name of Eagle when the postoffice was placed in a general store.

Crawford Banker Files Brief On Attorney's Fee

James Rush Ivins, Crawford banker involved in a divorce suit before the Nebraska Supreme Court, filed a brief Wednesday saying he should not have to pay the $750 attorney's fee for his former wife.

The action started when Mrs. Gloria Ruth Ivins sued for divorce asking for custody of their two minor sons, $1,500 a month alimony, and $750 for costs of the suit. They were married in 1946 in California.

The District Court for Dawes County, however, granted a divorce to Ivins on a cross petition on grounds of adultery, gave Ivins cutody of the children, and gave Mrs. Ivans $145, a car, and $750 attorney's fees, and costs were taxed to Ivins, Mrs. Ivins appealed to the Supreme Court.

Ivins' attorneys said in the brief the evidence shows the divorce was correctly granted to Ivins, but asked the court to reverse the judgment on the $750 attorney's fee and the court costs.

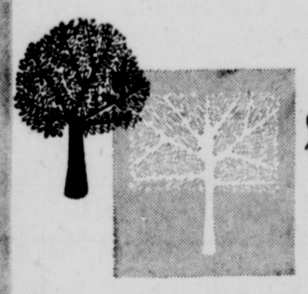
MY MOMMY SMILED!

I remember last year when Mommy went Christmas shopping. She'd come home tired and sad and tell Daddy how many times she had to drive around the block to find a place to park . . . it was awful! But today when she came home from Christmas shopping at GATEWAY SHOPPING CENTER she smiled! She said it was fun—she parked right by the door! If you want to smile when you go Christmas shopping, shop at GATEWAY. (P.S. . . . My Mommy's prettier when she smiles . . . bet you are too!)



Suddenly shopping is fun!

A summer wedding is planned.

Guests, Homecomers In The News

—We have no shoes or sealing wax to mention this morning — but we do have ships — the flying variety, and we'll get to it and those it carried a bit later.

At the moment we have the Patriarchs on our mind —We are told that the December dinner meeting will be held on Monday evening, Dec. 19 at the University Club — and that the program "Russian Vignettes" will be presented by Dr. Albin T. Anderson. Dr. Anderson, you may remember, traveled in Russia the past summer.

* * *

—And now for some guests who will be arriving for the holiday season. They are Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson and their three daughters, Kate, Sarah and Nora, who will be arriving from La Jolla, Calif., on Saturday, Dec. 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their daughters, who will remain until after New Year's Day, will be the guests of Mrs. Thompson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Thompson.

—on the current guest list —at least "current" for all practical purposes — are Mrs. Mayme Oliver of Marietta, Ga., who arrives in Lincoln today to spend a week or two as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miot Cox.

And joining the family group on Saturday will be Mrs. Cox's brother, Hoyt Oliver of Decatur, Ga. Oliver recently returned from a three-year stay in Korea where he was associated with the Missions board of the Methodist Church.

* * *

—Speaking of guests — Someone told us that Mr. and Mrs. Oz Black of Denver were recent visitors in Lincoln — They were guests of Mr. Black's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Tyner, the past week end.

* * *

—Aladdin and his lamp had nothing on Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Zellers who doubtless traveled as far and as fast as did Aladdin on his magic carpet.

Dr. and Mrs. Zellers are just back from a two months world tour by jet plane. They flew first to Hawaii, from there to the Orient, and on to the islands of Java, Sumatra, Bali and Ceylon — Then came India and Egypt.

However all transportation was not the 1960 variety — There was a boat trip on the Ganges, for instance — and of course to visit the pyramids their trek was a bit on the rock and roll side — on the backs of camels.

Just in case living in the lap of luxury — such as staying in palaces that had been the residences of former Maharajas, complete with oriental carpets and crystal chandeliers, might become a habit, Dr. and Mrs. Zellers tempered the good with the bad — the primitive hotel accommodations where beds were draped with mosquito netting.

There was nothing primitive, however, about their visits in Athens, Rome and Paris — cities that were included on the trip home.

And Saturday evening Miss Karin Anker was hostess at a dessert supper at her home for college friends of the bride and the hostess. During the informal evening hours, the soon-to-be bride was presented with a kitchen shower.

Also announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Mary Carol Elliott, who will become the bride of Louis Lederer on Tuesday, Dec. 20. The 8 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized at the First Baptist Church.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Having lived through the same thing I would have advised "Troubled Parents" to encourage their daughter to divorce her husband as soon as she found out he was a mental case.

My husband and I have been married for 16 years, and I wouldn't wish my life on a dog. He is mean to me and the children, and no one can say anything because he is "mentally ill." He is well enough to enjoy his own pleasures (golf, swimming, cards and TV) but not to support a family. He's been in and out of mental hospitals for years.

Be sensible, Abby, and tell this young wife to leave him while she's still able to make a better life for herself.

BEEN THROUGH IT

DEAR BEEN: And if your husband had been stricken with cancer, would you have left him? Victims of mental illness are just as helpless and blameless.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law has asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding. I am married. Is it proper for a married woman to be a bridesmaid?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It is proper.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I just telephoned the beauty shop in my neighborhood and asked if anyone could set my hair next Saturday. I was told that no one in the shop would take me because I was "too hard to please." This was an uncalled for insult as I have been more than patient with that whole crew of numbskulls who call themselves hairdressers. The only reason I would consider putting up with them is because it is the only beauty shop for miles around.

Do they have a right to do this? According to law, I mean.

READY TO SUE

DEAR READY: A lawyer could tell you what your rights are in this matter. If ALL the operators at that shop refuse to accommodate you, you must have done a fine job of getting into their hair. Better find another shop if you want someone to get into yours.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed envelope.

Late Autumn Wedding

MRS. CHESTER W. ADAMS

For the late autumn ceremony the bride chose a gown of silver-toned satin. Her small hat and brief veil reflected the shade of her gown, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and white orchids.

The wedding took place at the Chapel of the Wedding Bells in Bellflower, Calif., with the Rev. Harold Baker reading the lines in the presence of only the immediate family.

Mr. Adams, the grandson of the late Mrs. Bernice Tebbetts of Lincoln who for many years was an instructor in foreign languages at Lincoln High School, and his bride will divide their time between Huntington Park, Calif., and their ranch at Glamis, Calif.

Alan Justad.

Miss Barbara Barnum of Denver was the maid of honor, and the bridesmatron was Mrs. Adrian Muhle, Richland. Miss Patty Johnson, Newman Grove, was the junior bridesmaid. The attendants wore after-five frocks of emerald green velveteen and carried muffs of white fur trimmed with red carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Arnold Muhle, Jr., of Columbus, and the ushers were Adrian Muhle, Richland; Gail Muller, Newman Grove; John Dietrich, Jay Schmitt, brother of the bride, and Max Wunderlich, Jr., all of Columbus.

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk taffeta patterned with a satin applique in a lily motif. The princess lines were emphasized by an extremely bouffant skirt, which ended in a train, and her illusion veil was held by a crown of pearls. She carried white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Muhle will reside in Lincoln where the bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Muhle was named Miss Columbus of 1960.

Opening lead — four of diamonds.

The declarer should certainly not make a play which subjects him to defeat if there is available to him another play that will guarantee the contract.

No declarer would intentionally adopt a self-defeating play if he saw a positive way to make his contract, but the fact is that situations do arise where a declarer overlooks the best line of play and suffers defeat as a result.

Here is an example of just such a situation. West led a diamond and East won with the king and returned the nine. South covered with the queen and West made the good defensive play of letting the queen win.

Declarer decided to attack hearts, but when he led the ten and finessed, East took the queen, returned a diamond, and South went down one.

Declarer might have made the contract had he followed a different line of play after winning the queen of diamonds, but his major error was in failing to duck the nine of diamonds at trick two.

South should have played the seven on the nine. Had he done this, nothing could defeat him. Neither a diamond continuation nor any other lead could prevent him from making nine tricks after taking a heart finesse into the non-dangerous hand.

South should reason at trick two that there is no possibility of losing the contract unless West has five diamonds and East has the queen of hearts. He sees that if he covers the nine of diamonds he subjects himself to the danger that this is the case.

But if South ducks the nine, he averts this danger and sews up the contract. If it turns out that the diamonds are divided 4-4, he cannot lose more than three diamonds and a heart, and winds up with nine tricks.

If it turns out that the diamonds are divided 5-3 — the actual case — he again cannot lose more than three diamonds and a heart.

Ducking the nine is hence the right play.

BY JEAN PERRIN

Hi There!

Was last Saturday evening an exiciting one? It most certainly was for all of us who watched the basketball game between Lincoln High and Abraham Lincoln High. In their first game of the season the Links won over the Lynx during a three minute extension of time to break the tie. We hope this win will be the first of a long chain of victories for the Links!!!

Leading the cheering section at the reserve game for the first time were the newly chosen apprentice cheerleaders. A great job, girls!

The last few weeks have been busy ones for the seniors as they have been finding out about the many decisions they must make in one short year.

Although it seems that all their time is taken up by trading pictures or planning parties, in truth, they are giving much time and thought to their future. With the help of guidance teachers and home room classes they are preparing themselves to answer an inportant question—What shall I do after high school? Outside speakers have given valuable information to the students which will aid them with their decision.

Surface dives or back dolphins anyone? Did you say eight lengths of the pool?? Now that their show is over, Aqualinks members are holding clinics several times a week for those girls interested in trying out for the club.

LHS students will journey to Omaha this Friday to see the Links tangle with Westside.

Bartley Well Recovery Good

McCook (UPI) — Myatt Volentine, McCook, who filed on the No. 1 Kunkee oil well in the Sleepy Hollow Field in Red Willow County, announced that a drill stamp test taken at a depth of 3,220 feet recovered 2,200 feet of free oil and 3,000 feet of gas.

Bob Rutledge, independent consulting geologist here, said to date Volentine's well showed the best result on a drill stamp test of any of the wells in Red Willow County.

The recovery was made on a formation known as the Lansing Kansas City reservoir. Sleepy Hollow Field is 4 miles south of Bartley.

No. 1 Kunkee was the 26th producer in Sleepy Hollow Field.

There are also 47 producing wells in Ackman Field in Red Willow County some 7 miles southwest of Indianola.

NW Kansas Oil Activity Down Sharply

Denver (AP) — Drilling has dropped sharply since June in oil fields of northwestern Kansas, Petroleum Information said.

The industry publication said that so far this year 62 wells have been completed in that area as compared to 108 during 1959. All but eight of the 62 were completed before the end of June. Only two were actually spudded after midyear.

Developments last week in other high plains and Rocky Mountain states included:

Western Nebraska — Falcon Seaboard Drilling pumped 214 barrels of oil in 14 hours at 1 Schaffert in Morrill County, three quarters of a mile southeast of Lindberg Field. Burch drilling pumped 100 barrels of oil a day and continued to test at 1 Nokes-A in Red Willow County, a south offset to the operator's Silver Creek Field discovery.

Wounded Shield Gets Pen Term

Rushville (AP) —District Judge A. W. Crites sentenced Percy Wounded Shield, 21, of Gordon to 18 months to 3 years in the Nebraska Penitentiary Wednesday.

Wounded Shield had pleaded guilty Tuesday to motor vehicle homicide charges filed in the death of Jane Long Soldier, 14, of Gordon Sunday.

The girl died on a gravel road 3 miles north of Clinton. Sheridan County Attorney Lawrence Mitchell said the girl appeared to have been lying in the road when the auto struck her.

Peru Students Give Exchange Show At Hastings

Peru — Eleven students from Peru State Teachers College presented an exchange convocation program at Hastings College.

The Hastings "Road Show" will appear at Peru State later during the school year.

The Peru program included a dance band, pantomime, vocal music and interpretative reading.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The average American girl kisses 79 men before she gets married. This is a terrible thing when you think about it—you know, out of 79 SOMEBODY has to have a cold or something.

However, we do not offer this information as a matter of hygiene.

I offer it as a matter of romance.

I am a romantic fellow. Head in the clouds. Full of poetry.

". . . a kiss is just a kiss . . ." Play it, Sam.

☆ ☆ ☆

What brings this tender thought to mind this rainy day? Well, one day I am executive. All business. The next day I am romantic.

Two Cleveland policemen admitted they kissed women while on duty.

"The women were grateful for the road map information we gave them," they told the Commissioner.

It is apparently against the Cleveland rules for a Johnny Nab to smooch a little smooch while on duty. A narrow way of looking at things, it seems to me.

☆ ☆ ☆

A Cairo, Egypt, lady says her husband faints every time she kisses him. This upset her so, she asked for a divorce.

"And what is a kiss, when all is done?
"A promise given under seal—a vow
"Taken before the shrine of memory
"A signature acknowledged —a rosy dot
"Over the i of Loving."

I wish I had said that. But I did not. It was Cyrano de Bergerac.

Cyrano had a terrible time kissing. His nose got in the way.

The contact lens people advise lovers to wear these hidden glasses. "Because ordinary glasses often get in the way of a romantic kiss. If both parties wear glasses, there is the danger of a clash. Even broken glasses with the possibility of glass in the eye."

There is a sobering thought for today. A cautious thought for Love.

Kiss with glasses on and you may put your eye out.

☆ ☆ ☆

Have been looking for the most romantic kiss in all history. It has been a long search.

"I am dying, Egypt, dying; only
"I here importune death awhile, until
"Of many thousand kisses, the poor last
"I lay upon thy lips."

I wish I had said that, too. Marc Antony said it to Cleopatra. It is very romantic and proves that, even with a sword through them, men can only keep their minds on one thing.

☆ ☆ ☆

In Honolulu last year, the island's professional kisser quit cold. His job was to meet incoming tourists, hang a flower lei on their necks and kiss them.

He had been doing this for 30 years. Then he quit.

"Too many tourists now," he said. "Lips get tired."

There can be too much of a good thing.

At Purdue University, a few years ago, the Dean of Students ordered all co-eds to keep goodnight kisses to one. "Make it as short as possible," said Dean Margaret Lahey.

I wonder what happened to that edict. How many kiss-hours were shortened? How did this affect Purdue's co-eds? How did it affect their dates? There's a thought you can think about.

Let me know what you think. Take your time. Think it over.

Board Of Control Asks $38 Million In Budget

The State Board of Control Wednesday said it would need a record-breaking budget of $38,705,197 for its operations for the 1961-63 biennium, an increase of slightly over 12.5% for the present biennium.

Present at Governor Burney's hearing were State Sen. Norman Otto of Kearney, administrative assistant to Governor-elect Frank Morrison, and Sen. Otto Liebers, budget adviser to Morrison.

Board Vice-Chairman Harold Peterson explained that increases were due mainly to salary hikes and boosts in the cost of living and operating expenses.

He said the budget included a 7% hike over present operation for expenses and supplies.

Peterson called the budget "realistic and in keeping somewhat in line with what we think can be provided."

The budget included $36,642,782 to run the 15 major institutions and the mental health clinics at Scottsbluff, North Platte and Hastings, a $4,048,893 increase over the amount estimated to be spent for the present biennium.

Fund Sources

Source of funds to run the institutions and clinics was: $16,923,182 from the general fund; $4,044,600 from the institution cash fund and $15,675,000 from the special county levy.

Although the total budget request showed an increase of over 12.5%, the amount from the general fund supported by a tax levy was considerably greater.

It showed an increase of 32.5% from $13,252,501 to $17,538,259.

Other sources of revenue for the total budget were $15,675,000 from the county tax levies for care of mental pateints and $4,050,100 in receipts estimated to be brought in from the institution cash fund.

In explaining the need for the additional money, Peterson said the state could be proud of its institutions. He said Nebraska ranked in the top one-third of all states in the type and quality of facilities provided at the various state institutions.

He said the 13% increase in funds for the Beatrice State Home was due to construction of a new building which added 18 new employes. Beatrice is asking for $4,544,430 compared to $4,013,877 expected to be spent there in 1959-61.

Board member Mrs. Ethel Kirwin said this addition would not completely erase the waiting list of 40 at the hospital. She said the home has increased its residents to 2,100, a 100 resident increase.

For Scottsbluff Clinic

Also included in the budget was $87,960 to place the Scottsbluff clinic in complete operation. The board said a permanent staff would probably be assembled between now and the first of July.

The board has been operating the Scottsbluff clinic as part of its community service program but has not had a permanent staff there.

The board has been operating the Scottsbluff clinic as part of its community service program but has not had a permanent staff there.

The board asked for an increase of $450,000 from the state building fund of 1.1 mill levy, a portion of which goes to the board.

This amount would help finance an addition to the hospital building at the Nebraska Soldiers and Sailors' Home at Grand Island.

The board said the hospital addition was needed because membership had increased in members that required bed and hospital care.

The request from the building fund would also help pay for a gymnasium at the State Reformatory estimated to cost $100,000.

The board also said there was need in the state for a facility for the care and treatment of youngsters between the ages of 14 and 21 who are considered to be either border-line mentality or emotionally disturbed.

The board said at present there was no facility of this kind in the state.

Mental Clinic Set Here 'As Soon As Possible'

The Board of Control Wednesday indicated it would press for funds for a mental health clinic in Lincoln as soon as staff members are available.

Mrs. Ethel Kirwin, board member, told Gov. Dwight Burney that the board has "assured" the Lincoln-Lancaster County Mental Health Assn. it would "do so as soon as possible."

Establishment of the clinic depends, in large part, on "finding the doctors," Mrs. Kirwin said.

The matter was broached at budget hearings before the governor.

Harold Peterson, board vice chairman, explained that a clinic must have a psychiatrist, a clinical psychologist, a psychiatric social worker and a secretary before it is fully staffed.

Asking funds for the clinic were former State Sen. Tom Davies, and Walter Henrion, chairman of the Lincoln Community Council mental health committee.

The clinic would be under the control of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute.

Bryan Memorial Hospital authorities have "assured" the Community Council that the clinic could make use of the old Bryan nurses home, Davies said.

Gov. Burney said he was "in sympathy" with the proposal as long as the clinic could be properly staffed.

Pace Gets Study Grant

New York — Dr. Donald M. Pace of the University of Nebraska has been awarded a research grant by the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, it was announced Thursday.

Dr. Pace is professor of physiology and director of the Institute for Cellular Research at the university. The grant is for continued support of his research into the effects of certain fractions of tobacco smoke on living cells of animal tissues.

The committee has made 57 grants to scientists in 1960 for a total of nearly $800,000. All grants are made by the Scientific Advisory Board of independent doctors and research scientists. Some $4 million has been appropriated for research since the TIRC was first established.

"The new grants are renewed evidence of our belief that only through scientific research can we find the truth about the causes of disease," said Timothy V. Hartnett, TIRC chairman.

The TIRC has made grants to 105 scientists, who have published more than 135 research papers on their work.

Patient Dip Merits Closing Part Of TB Hospital—Peterson

Harold Peterson, vice chairman of the Board of Control, said Wednesday a portion of the tubercular hospital at Kearney could be closed because of the decrease in patients.

Peterson mentioned the possibility in a hearing before Governor Burney on the 1961-63 budget of the board.

Peterson said the board was asking for $1,146,950 to operate the hospital for the next 2-year period, a 12.4% increase over the amount expected to be spent for the present biennium.

He said the hospital's budget could be reduced if it was decided to close a part of its facilities. He said there are approximately 85 patients anticipated for the next biennial period.

Sen. Norman Otto of Kearney, administrative assistant to Governor-elect Frank Morrison, asked if other uses could be found for that portion that could be closed.

Peterson said there were a "number of activities" that could be carried on there. He specifically mentioned care of heart patients as one activity.

Board member Mrs. Ethel Kirwin said the National Tuberculosis Assn. was working on uses of tubercular hospitals in view of the decline in the number of tuberculosis patients throughout the country.

She said the association might come up with an idea on what to do with Kearney, including the possibility of admitting more out-of-state patients to the hospital.

Peterson said a suggestion by Otto to completely transfer the facilities of the hospital to some other building would be very expensive.

Mrs. Kirwin agreed with State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers who said at a previous budget hearing that there was a definite need in the state for the tubercular hospital.

"There will always be a necessity for the hospital although it is now larger than it needs to be," she said.

Youths At State Training Schools Released Earlier Than In Past

Mrs. Ethel Kirwin, member of the Board of Control, said youths at the Boys Training School at Kearney and the Girls Training School at Geneva are being released sooner than they have been in the past.

She said this was in keeping with the theory that these youths should return to society as soon as possible to give them greater opportunity to adjust themselves.

The policy of discharging youths after a shorter period of time has not resulted in any considerable increase in the number of readmissions, she said.

She said that at Geneva the number of girls was reduced when the new policy was put into effect, but she said the number has leveled off and there is now a slight increase.

The population at Kearney has also increased gradually, she said.

Princess Margaret's Husband Makes His First Public Speech

. . . AFTER A JITTERY START, ARMSTRONG-JONES DOES RIGHT WELL

By Eddy Gilmore

London (AP) — Princess Margaret's husband made his first public speech Wednesday. And he did very well too, after a jittery start.

Antony

Having been a professional cameraman before his marriage last spring, Antony Armstrong-Jones naturally talked about making pictures.

And the awards luncheon of the Photographic Informational Council giving him a tremendous hand after he related what made him click as a society photographer in his bachelor days.

"I can tell you what I personally use a camera for," he said. "Basically, it is to record a moment — a moment that is vital — to give the viewer a sensation of liveliness, sadness, joy and so on.

"A camera must be part of one — and extra limb — capable of freezing a situation without complicated preparation."

Armstrong-Jones said he likes to work with only one camera, one lens and nearly always the same film.

"One sees people wandering about looking like a photographic Christmas tree," he added, "and when they want to use any of it, it takes so long to disentangle the apparatus that the moment is lost."

Tony spoke from notes. But he did it without a stammer or a single hitch, although he showed nervousness at the beginning.

This was the first time he's appeared in public alone since his wedding. With Princess Margaret he had appeared in numerous places, from catnedrals to night clubs. But he never made any speeches before.

Armstrong-Jones also had advice for amateurs. He said any amateur "from the age of 10 upward should be able to mechanically operate a camera."

"Young photographers must experiment all the time," he confided, "and not be frightened of using light freely — shooting straight into the light if need be, making an effort to get new angles on much-photographed subjects and also discovering chemical properties of film itself."

When it leaked out that Armstrong-Jones was to appear alone and make a speech, his former photographic colleagues came running, expecting a field day of making pictures of him on the rostrum.

Armstrong-Jones willingly posed before speaking. But he barred photographers from the floor while he was on the rostrum. He said all those cameras pointing at hims made him uncomfortable.

Youths Sentenced To Reformatory

Wahoo (AP) — District Judge John D. Zeilinger Wednesday sentenced two Fremont youths to one to two years in the Nebraska Mens' Reformatory on burglary charges.

Sentenced in a Nov. 21 gas station holdup in Saunders County were Charles LaPlante, 18, and Donald Hansen, 20.

Sentencing of a 3rd youth involved, Robert Fajman, 16, of Lincoln, was deferred.

Four Yolks In Egg Nice Try, But Not A Record

By Francis Stilley

Liberty, N.Y. (AP)— Cluck at this if you will, but if there was ever a queen among hens she's one of those on Joseph Mencher's poultry farm.

She laid an egg with 4 yolks. She also set off a cackle of controversy among egg experts as to whether hers was the first on record.

The breakfast bargain was discovered Tuesday and the number of yolks which came tumbling out of the egg was soon far outmatched by the number of astonished gasps which came tumbling out of people.

The egg was laid by a "Brender Leghorn" and the Mencher family certainly would like to find out which of their hens did it, so they could do a lot of crowing in her honor. That, however, doesn't seem likely. They have 35,000 Brender Leghorns and they don't record from which each egg came.

The 4-yolk specimen happened to have been held out of the day's sales to markets because it was extra large. Mrs. Mencher decided to cook it for her family.

She broke it — and screamed.

Before long, people from far and wide were dashing in to see it.

Max Brender, a veteran hatcheryman whose hatchery produced the hen that laid the egg, said he never had either.

Off to Cornell University went inquiries. Dr. Frederick B. Hutt, professor of animal genetics, termed the 4-yolker unique to his knowledge. Dr. Hutt got in touch with Dr. Alexis Romanoff, a retired Cornell professor and one of the world's foremost authorities on bird eggs.

Dr. Romanoff said he'd heard a lot of stories about such but they always turned out to be jokes. Some wag dumping separate egg yolks together.

An historic event in chickendom seemed assured until a consultation with Wharton J. Bruce of New York City. He is chairman of the advisory committee of the Poultry and Egg National Board, a private marketing consultant and described by one source as "a man who knows everything there is to know about eggs." Bruce promptly cracked the sensation into little pieces.

"I've not only seen an egg with 4 yolks, but I've seen one with five. What's more, I saw both of them cracked, too, so I know.

"The one with 4 was broken open at a meeting of the Northeast Poultry Producers Council at Rutgers University some years ago.

"Actually, that's so rare that the odds for one would be fantastic. I wouldn't even try to guess at a figure, it would be so great."

But about that 5-yolk egg?

"Some guy—an egg candler—showed up at a bar here in New York one time. He had with him a huge egg. He and the other fellows at the bar got to talking about it and, after a few drinks with the boys, he offered to bet it had 5 yolks. The others called him a liar.

"I was there too and after the bets were made we got a plate and cracked the egg. Sure enough, there were 5 yolks in it."

How much did the egg candler win?

"About $25."

LIU HAILS SINO-SOVIET SOLIDARITY

Moscow (UPI) — Chinese Communist president Liu Shao-Chi told a Sino-Soviet friendship rally Wednesday his government supports Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's plan for peaceful co-existence with the West.

Liu, a Moscow-trained theoretician who also is vice chairman of the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party, said China advocates a peaceful foreign policy and that no force can undermine Sino-Soviet solidarity.

Such friendship rallies at Lenin Stadium usually are accorded heads of state visiting the Soviet Union. This one lived up to its name; at the end of Liu's hour-long speech he and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev embraced, kissed each other on the cheek and smiled.

The two leaders also embraced and kissed following a 23-minute speech by Hrezhnev in which he quoted an earlier speech by Premier Khrushchev: "any imperialist attack against Peoples China will be considered an attack against our country."

Brezhnev also promised Liu that the "stinking corpse" of Nationalist China's Chiang Kai-Shek soon will be removed from the United Nations.

Khrushchev did not attend the rally nor a series of receptions for the visiting Chinese leader. His wife, Nina, told visitors he is confined to his home with a "touch of influenza." She said she did not think it was anything serious.

The rally, held in an indoor arena, was broadcast by radio and television. About 7,000 Chinese students, diplomats and visitors attended. In addition, Moscow radio played music dedicated to the Chinese throughout the day.

Liu promised in his speech that China will "devote all of its efforts to the cause of struggle for peace." He said it "has a peaceful foreign policy and comes out for peaceful co-existence. It will make all efforts to improve relations with other countries."

"The imperialists headed by the United States are madly continuing an arms drive," Liu said.

Cuban Revolt Teaches Fantastic Vulnerability Of U.S. — Educator

One of the impressive lessons that the Cuban revolution has taught the nations of Latin America is "the fantastic vulnerability of the United States," according to Dr. Daniel Cosio Villegas, considered Mexico's leading intellectual.

Speaking at the University of Nebraska, the educator said:

"Cuba, the United States' former submissive slave and small, poor and disunited, has litterally immobilized the U.S., speechless, in a corner."

Dr. Cosio, president of the College of Mexico, delivered his concluding address Wednesday afternoon as part of the Montgomery Lectures.

Dr. Cosio said Latin Americans should be deeply impressed by this vulnerability of the U.S.:

"First, because they have discovered it at Cuba's expense; second, because the U.S. weakness strengthens Latin Americans and without paying anything for the strength so acquired; finally, and above all, because the weakness of the U.S. is noble, entirely praiseworthy, for strength that does not resort to force in order to resolve its difficulties inspires sympathy and confidence."

A second impressive lesson is that the admiration aroused by the Cuban revolution in Latin America is due to the fact that it has aimed at benefiting the people boldy and directly.

"It is probable that not all the methods used in Cuba could be employed in other Latin American countries and still more probable that their employment would be undesirable.

'Poor Fed Up'

"But what cannot be denied is the following. It is no longer possible to restrain the desire of the poor in Latin America and the whole world to better themselves. The poor man is fed up with hearing that he is going to get better and with seeing that he does not get any better; he is fed up with getting better today, but not tomorrow; and he is also fed up with getting better today and tomorrow, but just a little bit.

He wants to get better soon, and all the time," Dr. Cosio explained.

For now, he said, man believes that he lives by bread alone and, in order to obtain that bread, "today's man is capable of selling his soul to the devil, or of selling his freedom to communism."

Dr. Cosio explained that this was the element of the Cuban revolution that is most disturbing to Latin America.

He added:

"If the ideological loyalty of the Cuban rulers reaches the point of prevailing over Latin America's common historical background, Cuba will not only tend to separate from Latin America, but end up regarding Latin America with inevitable hostility as one more obstacle in its path.

"And to the extent that other Latin American peoples and governments feel that their friendship with Cuba depends on an unconditional acceptance of everything it does within and without its borders, to that extent those peoples and governments will, at best, consider Cuba a black sheep that should be left to its own fate and, at worst, an insufferable burden that must be gotten rid of."

Dr. Cosio listed these elements which make up the Latin American sympathy for Cuba:

". . . Cuban revolution has sought to benefit the poor.

". . . the conviction that the only aim of the Cuban revolutionaries is the welfare of the people and that they pursue this so sincerely and honestly that they place it before all else.

". . . the natural sympathy for any David in his fight against Goliath."

But, he said, these elements may turn out to be perishable. The welfare of the people must not only be pursued it must actually be achieved.

"Can the revolution proceed from its destructive task to the task of creation and construction, using only the instrument of the spoken word and the televised image?

"What are the Cuban leaders more interested in, the welfare of their people or stirring up trouble for the U.S.?"

Dr. Cosio said that it would not be too far from the truth that 80% of the words of Dr. Castro are dedicated to defaming the U.S., and a modest 20% to discussing the problems of the Cuban people.

Kasavubu Orders Martial Law

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) —The head of the Congo's provisional government announced Wednesday night President Joseph Kasavubu has placed rebellious Oriental Province under martial law.

Justin Bomboko, chief of Col. Joseph Mobutu's college of commissioners, said the decree placed everyone in the province under the jurisdiction of Mobutu's army.

It is doubtful, however, that the decree could have much immediate effect in the areas of Oriental Province held by military police force loyal to imprisoned ex-premier Patrice Lumumba.

Bomboko tossed in the announcement as an afterthought at the end of a bizarre news conference in the darkened lounge of Lumumba's former residence.

The power supply had been cut off in the villa, from which Lumumba fled 10 days ago. The single floodlight of a television cameraman was the only illumination, focused on Bomboko's perspiring face.

Bomboko said Kasavubu signed the martial law decree Monday. He said Mobutu's troops would be authorized to set up military tribunals and put all "rebels" on summary trial throughout Oriental Province.

Bomboko called the news conference mainly to announce that the pro-Western regime might be prepared to welcome the proposed U.N. conciliation commission in the Congo after Dec. 26—under certain conditions.

The commission, originally comprising the African-Asian nations with troops in the U.N. Congo force, had been intended to seek a conciliation between Kasavubu and Lumumba.

Bomboko said that Kasavubu outlined his conditions in a message to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. These were:

—That the Congolese authorities receive prior notification what countries will take part.

—That the countries with which the Congo has broken off diplomatic relations be excluded. This would apply to Ghana and the United Arab Republic, both of which already have announced their withdrawal.

—That the Congolese authorities be told the commission's aims and working methods. Bomboko made no reference to Lumumba in this connection, but observers believed he wanted a prior assurance that the commission would not insist on getting Lumumba out of jail to a conference table.

—a prior understanding on how the commission's costs would be met.

Bomboko took violent exception to Soviet demands in the United Nations for Lumumba's liberation and for the disarming of Mobutu's troops.

"The Congo is an independent state," he said. "The Soviet Union and the security council have no right to interfere in our internal affairs. Never, never will we permit our soldiers to be disarmed."

Asked when Lumumba would be placed on trial for inciting army mutiny and other alleged crimes, Bomboko declared:

"When all innocent men who are in prison have been freed."

GOP's Best Vote-Getter In Illinois Dampens Electoral Ballot 'Holdup'

Springfield, Ill. (UPI)—The best Republican vote-getter in Illinois Wednesday threw cold water on GOP hopes to withhold the state's 27 electoral votes from president-elect John F. Kennedy.

Charles F. Carpentier, Illinois' secretary of state and the only Republican state office holder to survive the Illinois Democratic landslide, said the GOP-dominated state electoral board will have to certify Kennedy's Illinois victory next week unless a court orders otherwise.

There has not been sufficient evidence of vote fraud in the Chicago Democratic stronghold to justify any other action by the electoral board, Carpentier said.

The idea of withholding Illinois' electoral vote had come from no less a personage than Republican Gov. William G. Stratton. Stratton told a news conference last week that if Chicago Republicans can come up with tangible evidence of widespread vote fraud the electoral board might refuse to certify the vote. That would mean neither presidential candidate would get Illinois' vote.

Both Stratton and Carpentier are on the state electoral board, along with two lame duck GOP office holders and a lone Democrat.

Chicago Republicans still hoping to save the state for Vice President Richard M. Nixon have admitted privately that they hoped the electoral board would refuse to let Illinois' vote be cast for Kennedy.

Republicans pressing for a recount of Chicago's vote refused to be downhearted by Carpentier's statement. George Dapples, attorney for the Chicago Nixon Recount Committee, said Carpentier is "just one member of the board . . . I think I can make out a case for him that will satisfy him."

Pearl Harbor Bomb Victims Lived For Days In Hulks Of Ships

Washington (AP) — Navy records show evidence that some victims of the Pearl Harbor attack died of suffocation after living for days trapped in the bomb and torpedo battered hulks on Battleship Row.

This indication has been reported several times since the Dec. 7, 1941, Japanese attack.

The Navy has now declassified two pages of a lengthy report on the salvage of the battleship West Virginia whose hulk yielded 66 bodies. This report stated that there were "evidences that some of the men had lived for considerable periods and finally succumbed due to lack of oxygen."

In the after engine room, salvage men who eventually cut their way into the blasted and sunken ship found several bodies lying on top of the steam pipes. The report noted that such an area was probably within the air bubble existing in that flooded space.

The story of 3 men, whose bodies were later recovered from a storeroom deep within the West Virginia was told in a 1957 book entitled, "Day of Infamy," by Walter Lord.

The official salvage report states that the emergency rations at this station "had been consumed and a manhole to the fresh water tanks below the pumps had been removed."

Salvagemen also found in this storeroom where the 3 bodies were recovered a calendar which had an X marked on each date from Dec. 7, 1941, to the day before Christmas Eve.

The death toll aboard the West Virginia two officers and 103 enlisted men. She was hit by 6 aerial torpedoes and two bombs that left her a flaming wreck.

The big ship eventually settled to the bottom of Pearl Harbor, about 50 feet deep at that point, leaving her portside main deck awash.

The former battleship Utah, which had been dismantled as a fighting ship and was being used for training purposes 19 years ago, also went down in the attack. When the Utah sank, 58 bodies remained in the hulk.

It is possible, although there is no evidence on the subject, that some of these men survived for a time after the ship sank.

Some crew members of the battleship Oklahoma were more fortunate. Rescue workers heard faint taps from within this heavily damaged battleship and 32 men were rescued after they had been trapped below decks for 36 hours.

The Navy records hold little or no likelihood that any of the 1,102 officers and men who went down with the Arizona lived very long after this ship was rent asunder by an aerial torpedo and 7 bombs. One of the bombs pierced the battleship's armored deck and exploded below, setting off secondary detonations that probably caused almost instant death.

The West Virginia was floated 5 months after the Pearl Harbor attack, sent to the West Coast under her own steam and returned to action in time to take part in the Leyte Gulf battle in October, 1944.

Change In Law On Two-Thirds Rule Is Sought

Omaha (AP)—Douglas County Board Chairman Walter X. Spellman said the legislature will be asked to change the law under which a County Hospital $2.5 million bond issue failed for lack of a two-thirds majority.

An alternative, he said, would be a friendly lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the two-thirds rule. Groundwork for a suit is being laid in case the legislative try fails.

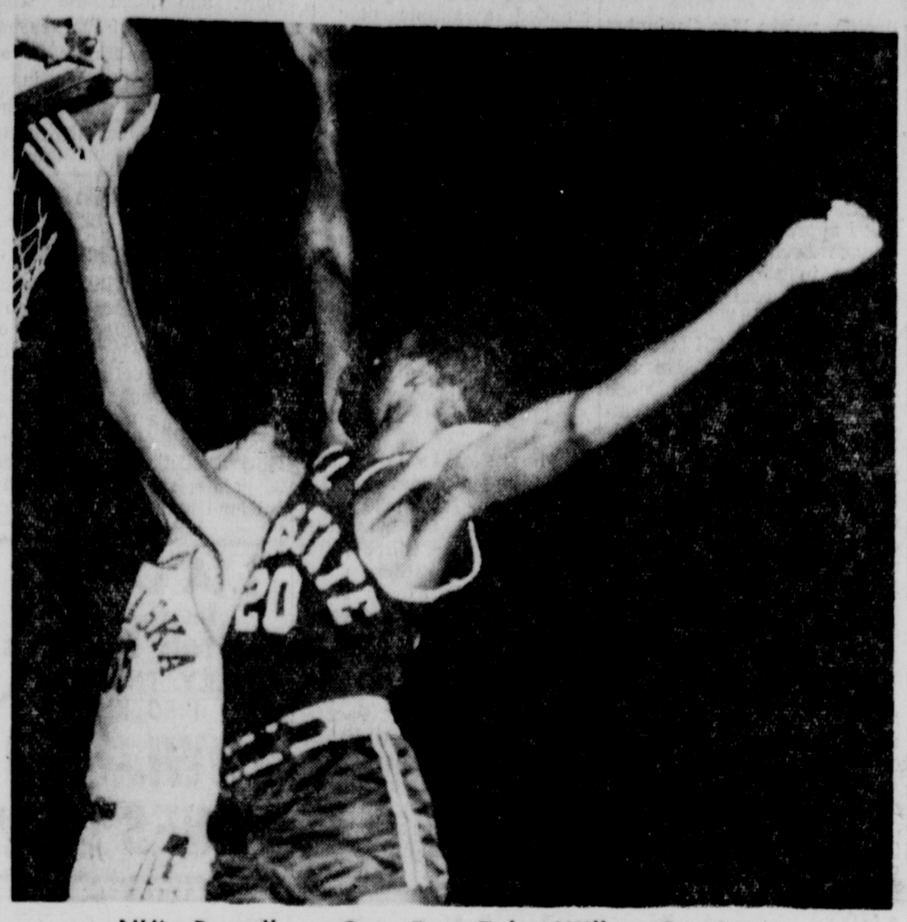
NU PULLS ONE OUT, 65-60

Tom Russell Peps 5-Point Spurt In Final 15 Seconds Of Thriller



NU's Russell . . . Gets Past Tyler Wilbon For Layin.

By Bob McCoy

Rookie center Tommy Russell helped Nebraska pull a long-cooking victory cake out of the oven, then personally applied the icing Wednesday night.

Russell manufactured 5 points in the last 15 seconds as the Huskers toppled highly rated Utah State, 65-60, before 4,000 screaming fans.

Nebraska, with a history of faltering in down-to-the-wire situations, finally pulled one out.

And Russell, a 6-7 transfer from Independence, Kan., was the man of the hour—which lasted only about 3 minutes.

Leads By Seven

Nebraska, displaying deadly shooting at times and disastrous passing at others, managed a pair of 7-point leads against the potent Utags. Both times the Huskers folded.

The latest letup nearly cost the victory. After NU manufactured a 50-43 lead with 10 minutes left, Utah State's diminutive Max Perry went to work.

In 3 minutes Perry, who stands 5-10 if you use a rubber yardstick, had the game tied.

Aggies Lead Late

With 3 minutes left, the Aggies had a 57-54 lead — their longest margin of the contest. Nebraska's cake looked like it might come out charcoal.

But Russell got loose under the basket for a bank shot and steady Jim Kowalke plunked in a pair of jump shots from the side to tie the game 60-60 with one minute to go.

Utah State got a chance to crack the tie when Gil Walker was fouled 47 seconds from the end. The rabid NU boosters put up a deafening roar and Walker's 1-and-1 free throw rolled off the hoop.

Then Nebraska got its chance for a last shot. With 15 seconds to go, Jan Wall spotted Russell uncovered in range of the basket.

Russell Hits

Wall threw a strike and Russell threw a ringer for a 62-60 NU lead. Still Utah State hadn't had enough, and neither had Nebraska and Russell.

The Aggies worked the ball to Perry, who took aim for his 10th basket of the night with 4 seconds remaining.

The two-hand set shot hit the rim, Russell plucked it out of the air and an Aggie climbed Tommy's back.

With 0:03 on the clock, Nebraska needed only a free throw to win. Russell got it, then intercepted the Aggie throwin and fed the ball to Al Roots for a layin at the gun which brought the final tally to 65-60.

Coach Jerry Bush, whose club won its 2nd in 3 tries, tossed towels, hugged players and whooped it up. So did the Huskers who helped shift the tide.

They were Bill Bowers, scrambling off the boards in the final half; Wall, who hit 5 long jump shots after the intermission; Kowalke, whose shooting and rebounding held the Huskers together; Rex Swett, with 10 points at key situations and of course, Russell.

Kowalke led NU scoring with 17 points, while Russell hit 16 and Wall 13.

Perry's 23 led all scorers. Cornell Green had 16 and clowning Charlie Walker 12 to help the Aggies.

Top Rebounds

NU led in rebounds 49-43 in hit 28 for 62 and 45% from the field. Utah State, now 1-2 for the season, canned 24 of 69 for 35%.

MILWAUKEE GETS BOLLING

Milwaukee finally ended its long search for a second baseman — it hopes — by acquiring Frank Bolling from Detroit in a 6-man trade. The Tigers will get Bill Bruton (right) among others in the 6-man deal. (See story Page 46).

Rule Changed To Allow Expansion

. . . FRICK CREDITS O'MALLEY

St. Louis (AP)—Los Angeles finally became the 10th club of the American League for the 1961 baseball season Wednesday when the two majors amended their territorial rules in a new "Missouri compromise."

Commissioner Ford Frick did not have to cast a decisive vote at the joint meeting. The two leagues took him off the hot spot by getting together on an amendment that opened the way for the American to go into Los Angeles in '61 and the National League to return to New York in 1962.

The new Los Angeles club, to be known as the Angels, will play its home games at Wrigley Field, the old Pacific Coast League park in Los Angeles which seats about 21,500. There are plans to expand it to 25,000 before the start of the season.

As part of the compromise with Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League, the club will move into his new park at Chavez Ravine in 1962 with a 4-year lease and an option to renew for 3 more years. No rental figures were announced, but reports put the annual figure at a minimum of $200,000 in a sliding scale based on attendance.

Bob Reynolds, former Stanford football star, and Gene Autry, singing cowboy, head the new group that will operate the Angels. Reynolds said he will name a manager in a few days. He has talked once with Casey Stengel, ex-Yankee manager, but Old Case made no commitment.

The old Rule 1 that stirred up all the fuss required unanimous permission for one league to move into a city that already was a member of the other major league. The commissioner had insisted on a "fair and equitable" amendment, "one that we can live with in the future," before he would give his approval.

The new version requires only a three-fourths vote for a move into another league's territory, but will not permit a new club to play in a park located within 5 miles of the other club's park. Wrigley Field is within 5 miles of the Los Angeles Coliseum, the Dodgers' makeshift ballyard, but O'Malley waived the rule.

The New York Yankees also waived the rule for 1962, enabling the National's New York team to play either in the Polo Grounds or Yankee Stadium.

Frick, obviously relieved that the owners finally had been able to solve their problems, credited the Dodgers for the agreement.

Dream Of Title Keeps Fighter From Comforts

Spokane, Wash., (AP) —What drives a man to exchange the comforts of his suburban home and family for the solitude of an empty motel room thousands of miles away.

Or to exchange a neat business suit for groggy sweat clothes and the monotonous training routine of a professional boxer?

Why should he abandon solid security and a career as a teacher to risk a battering into senselessness and possible permanent injury?

For stocky, balding Pete Rademacher the answers are simple:

"It's exhilarating to set a supreme test for your body and then have it respond to your commands. And it's a quick, easy way to make a good profit."

But there is a deeper motive for this olympic champion who began his professional boxing career with a storybook losing fight for the world's heavyweight championship and now is a one man fighter-trainer-manager corporation.

Rademacher confidently carries the dream of winning the world's professional crown to place alongside the amateur gold medal he won at Melbourne in 1954.

"I want another chance at the title. I think I can get one. First I'd like a bout with Archie Moore the light-heavyweight champion.

Then at least an elimination bout to get in line for the heavyweight championship."

Peeling off a t-shirt wet from training for Wednesday night's fight with local favorite Kirk Barrow who has won 14 straight, Rademacher revealed a thick, solid body and gave a final flex of thick arms and shoulders along with a wry smile:

"Of course, not everyone agrees with me.

"Almost everyone advises me to quit fighting—family, friends, even my banker—but none of them know my desires and capabilities as well as I do."

Rademacher, 32, is so confident it sounds almost like a classroom lecture when he explains away his losses to champion Floyd Patterson, top contender Zora Foley and Brian London.

Photog Gets Caught In Knothole

. . . Or Something

Palo Alto, Calif. (AP)—A news cameraman got his camera caught in a knot hole here Thursday.

Well, almost.

Green Bay Packer coach Vince Lombardi said Tuesday that his practices here would be "closed." They are. Nobody gets in.

The lensman in question thought he had the ban beat by aiming through a knothole. As he stood clicking away, Tom Miller, Packer publicity man, walked up, said "Excuse me" and took the camera.

"I'll ask Coach Lombardi what he thinks," he said.

Lombardi thought: "I've never heard of such a thing."

Development: Film canned. "But what about the 49er pictures on the same roll?" asked photog Paul German of United Press International.

"We'll mail them to them," Miller said.

Maybe Number 336 Will Win

San Juan, Puerto Rico (AP) —Jockey Pedro Juan Vinales rode his 335th mount in 10 years at El Comandante race track and lost his 335th race. But he is not discouraged.

"Given the right mount I'll win," the 26-year old jockey said. "I'm not going to retire before I get into the winner's circle."

Five Greats On LA's List For Skipper

St. Louis (AP) — Casey Stengel, Bill Rigney, Eddie Stanky, Leo Durocher and Bob Elliott Wednesday were listed by the Los Angeles Angeles as manager possibilities for the new American League club.

Stengel, 70, recently let out by the New York Yankees because he was too old, is the No. 1 choice, but Los Angeles President Bobby Reynolds said Casey "had made no commitment to us, nor us to him," after a preliminary discussion.

Fred Haney, former Pittsburgh and Milwaukee manager who will serve as player personnel director of the new club, will have a hand in picking the manager.

All of the named candidates are former major league managers. Durocher, like Stengel a West Coast favorite, last managed the New York Giants, giving way to Rigney before the club shifted to San Francisco. Rigney was fired last June.

Stanky also managed in the National League, with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Joe Brown Decisioned By Italian

Milan, Italy (AP) — Giordano Campari, hardly known outside his Italian homeland, Wednesday night scored a stunning upset in defeating world lightweight boxing champion Joe Brown in a 10-round, non-title bout.

The decisive development came in the second round when Brown went down for a count of 8 after taking a stinging left hand blow on the chin.

Campari, using his sweeping left to an advantage on Brown's face, won a clear cut decision over his more experienced foe. The Associated Press gave the Italian 4 rounds, Brown one and called 5 even.

Brown, a bit too slow against the fast punching Italian, often found his own punches ineffective as Campari stepped aside with fancy footwork.

NSAA Assembly Meets Tonight

Representative Assembly of the Nebraska School Activities Assn. will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

The legislative body of the activities group has only one proposal on the agenda concerning sports, although others may be proposed from the floor.

The sports proposal would establish specific seasons for all sports. Other proposals on the agenda concern speech and music activities.

—TEAMSTERS APPROACHED—

Jack Kearns Wants Union To Organize Ring Industry

. . . Basilio Asks Federal Control

Washington (AP) — Veteran boxing manager Jack Kearns testified Wednesday he is negotiating with the Teamsters Union on organizing the entire prize fight industry.

Kearns told Senate probers his most recent negotiations with the Teamsters took place within the past two weeks.

He said he is dickering also with AFL-CIO through its president, George Meany.

The AFL-CIO has expelled the Teamsters on the basis of findings in another Senate investigation that some top Teamsters officials have been allied with gangsters.

The colorful 79-year-old Kearns gave his testimony before the Senate Antimonopoly Subcommittee. It is investigating underworld influence in professional boxing and is trying to decide whether the sport should be federally regulated.

Battle-scarred Carmen Basilio, former middleweight champion, testified ahead of Kearns and appealed for federal laws to drive out the hoodlums.

Kearns said the sport can be cleaned up "if the Federal Government will give it backing."

He was one of the organizers of the old International Boxing Managers Guild, which he said "drifted out of existence" after a district attorney's investigation of its New York chapter.

Nicholas Kittrie, a subcommittee staff assistant, asked Kearns whether it was true that within the past two weeks he had been at Teamsters Union headquarters here.

Kearns said it was true; that he still is negotiating with the Teamsters and "any union that will get us a charter but nothing is definite yet."

He was questioned specifically about $137,000 he reportedly received since 1953 from firms headed by James D. Norris, former president of the International Boxing Clubs. The clubs have been dissolved by the courts on grounds they exercised a monopoly over boxing.

Kearns said he recalls no details about the payments, but that he knows of no basis for testimony by a Norris associate that he was paid, among other reasons, to assure a free flow of fighters for IBC promotions.

Basilio spoke in contemptuous phrases of Frankie Carbo, Frank (Blinky) Palermo and Gabe Genovese, all rackets figures who have been mentioned as powers in the fight business.

"These guys were making money they weren't earning and don't deserve," Basilio said.

Of Carbo he said:

"Carbo never advised me to do anything. He never had any right to tell me to do anything. Nobody tells me what to do."

While suggesting federal control might be the answer to boxing's ills, Basilio waved aside the National Boxing Assn. as a possible supervising agency.

"Just a bunch of phonies," the middleweight said of the NBA as a whole. However, he lauded NBA Commissioner Abe Green as "a very, very good man."

Earlier, it was disclosed that former fight manager Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman told a New York grand jury more than two years ago that Carbo "acted as the whole boss" over lightweight champ Joe Brown.

High Scoring Florida A&M Vs. Langston

Miami, Fla., (AP) — Two of the nation's highest scoring football teams clash in the 28th Orange Blossom game here Saturday night and the fur is bound to fly.

Florida A & M University, 1959 national Negro champions, broke the NAIA scoring record this season with 475 points in 9 games for a 52.7-point average. They had an 8-1 record.

Their opponents will be Langston University from Oklahoma, undefeated in 16 games and with an average of 33.3 points per game for 9 contests.

Florida A&M's Clarence Childs of Lakeland sparks the Rattlers' running attack while Miami's Emory Collier does the passing.

Langston's quarterback, Donald Smith, completed 105 out of 176 passes during the season and averaged 50.8 yards in punting.

Langston's ground attack is led by Eddie Shegog, who gained 393 yards in 46 tries this season, and Billy Snoddy, with 364 yards in 53 attempts.

It will be Florida A&M's 28th appearance in Orange Blossom competition.

—IMPORTANT BIG 8 MEET TODAY—

KU Eligibility Hot Question

By Don Bryant

Big 8 Conference faculty representatives gather in Kansas City today for what may turn out to be one of the most explosive sessions in years.

One giant hassle was averted when Oklahoma decided to stick with the conference.

But the real stickler confronting the faculty men is the Bert Coan eligibility question—and it may turn out to be a dandy.

Coan is the University of Kansas halfback who transferred to KU from Texas Christian University. He helped the Jayhawks post a 6-0-1 conference record to gain the first outright championship in 30 years.

Probation

However, in mid-season Kansas was placed on probation by the NCAA on the grounds that Coan was illegally induced to leave TCU, particularly that he had received "excessive entertainment."

Specifically, the NCAA found that Coan had been flown to Chicago for the All Star football game by Bud Adams of Houston, Tex., a Kansas graduate and a KU athletic-alumni representative in that area.

Coan has maintained that he paid his own expenses, and that he had already decided to leave TCU before the trip with Mr. Adams.

Kansas Balks

Following the NCAA action, Big 8 officials reportedly conferred with KU brass and advised against Coan's further participation in view of the loop's rule against "excessive entertainment."

However, Kansas balked, declared Coan—in KU's opinion—was eligible and Coach Jack Mitchell played him against Colorado and Missouri.

Tuesday KU Dean of Students L. C. Woodruff told the Lawrence, Kan., Journal-World: "In our judgment, Coan is eligible, and Kansas has violated no conference rule."

Woodruff will present KU's defense at the Thursday-Friday faculty meetings in Kansas City. Dean Charles Miller will represent Nebraska at the sessions.

One of the central issues at stake is this: The NCAA punished Kansas because Coan got "excessive entertainment;" therefore, can the boy remain eligible under the Big 8 rules just because Kan-

Hastings' Swim Problems

The complaint most often heard in football—that Omaha teams won't travel outside Omaha for games—has now shifted to another sport, swimming.

The complaint comes from Hastings Tribune sports editor Robb Madgett, who says Hastings has been unable to schedule meets with Omaha schools, except Boys Town.

"We have enough to keep us busy in our own back yard," was the excuse used, says Madgett, then adds:

"This might be true, but why penalize swimming enthusiasts in this area because of their geographic location."

Turn it around, Robb. Why penalize Omaha schools by forcing them to travel when they don't have to?

Madgett says the Lincoln schools have been most cooperative, which, I have no doubt, is true. Realistically, however, it should be pointed out that Lincoln is in an ideal situation as far as scheduling.

It must travel to some extent, and the Lincoln teams can go either way easily. Point is, Hastings isn't scheduled simply out of the goodness of Lincoln's heart, although, Hastings is certainly a welcome foe.

Not NSAA Problem

Madgett proposes that C. C. Thompson and the Nebraska School Activities Assn. look into the problem of the "boycott" by the Omaha schools.

I hardly think this is likely, since I can't see that the NSAA has jurisdiction over the scheduling of regular-season meets by Nebraska taems, as long as they stay within the rules. And Omaha teams aren't breaking any rules by not scheduling Hastings.

Madgett has another proposal which makes more sense, however.

"Nebraska swimming coaches should get together and talk a little sense about retaining swimming interest other than in their own private circles."

To this I agree.

The basic problem is one of building interest in swimming as a prep sport on a state-wide level. Interest has been growing, but it is extremely slow.

Only 12 teams competed in the state swim meet last year, and only two outside Omaha and Lincoln. They were Hastings and Grand Island, and the Islanders do not have their own pool.

Cost of a swimming pool is, of course, the big deterrent to growth of swimming as a sport. Because of this, swimming can't hope to match the growth of, for instance, wrestling, which has had a fast growth in recent years.

But banding together of all the state's swimming coaches, including Omaha, to push swimming would be a good move. In this case, I feel that if Omaha helped Hasitngs now, Omaha would benefit later.

LOCHLAND CC OPENING SET

Hastings — Lochland Country Club, now under construction two miles north of Hastings, will officially open its clubhouse in the fall of 1961 and its golf course in the spring of 1962, it was announced here Wednesday.

Plans call for an 18-hole grass greens course, colonial style clubhouse, swimming pool, pro shop and a limited number of homesites. The site encompasses 175 acres.

Greens and fairways for 9 holes have already been seeded and footings for the clubhouse have been poured.

Lochland president J. M. McDonald Jr. said a membership drive will begin soon,

Milwaukee Finally Lands Long-Sought Frank Bolling

. . . Bruton, Cottier To Detroit

St. Louis (AP) — Milwaukee landed second baseman Frank Bolling and Detroit acquired center fielder Billy Bruton Wednesday in a major inter-league deal involving 6 players.

To get the second baseman they have been chasing for over a year, the Braves gave up Bruton, second baseman Chuck Cottier, catcher Dick Brown and rookie relief pitcher Terry Fox. In addition to Bolling, Milwaukee will get an "acceptable minor league player" to be designated before March 1.

"We've been working since the 1959 World Series to get Bolling," said John McHale, Milwaukee general manager who formerly held the same job at Detroit. "When I was with Detroit I thought Bolling was as valuable as Harvey Kuenn or Al Kaline. He is a high class, first division type player, a fine hustler and excellent team man."

This was the second major swap since the inter-league trading period, which extends to Dec. 15, began on Nov. 21. Last Saturday, the San Francisco Giants traded left-hander Johnny Antonelli and outfielder Willie Kirkland to Cleveland for Kuenn, an infielder-outfielder and former American League batting champion.

The Braves also acquired another second baseman, Billy Martin, from Cincinnati in a $40,000 purchase Saturday. Martin now figures for utility work, apparently.

Bob Scheffing, new Detroit manager, immediately said he will return Al Kaline to his old post in right field, play Bruton in center and use Rocky Colavito in left field. Kaline prefers right field.

"I like the deal," said Scheffing. "It gives us protection at second base and in the bullpen and strengthens our outfield and catching.

"Bruton gives us a solid outfield, both on offense and defense. Brown will compete with Mike Roarke and the kid, Bob Rogers, for the first string job. We'll probably lose Harry Chiti to one of the new clubs."

Scheffing was a coach under Chuck Dressen at Milwaukee last season, so he has sound knowledge of the Milwaukee players involved.

"Bruton was the 3rd best center fielder in the league last year behind Willie Mays and Vada Pinson," said Scheffing. "He had one of his best years and showed no trace of the old knee injury."

Scheffing said Cottier would be behind rookie Jake Wood (.307 at Denver) at spring training in the battle for second place. He said he considered Fox a "good relief pitcher." Fox, 25, appeared in 100 games in the last two years in the minors without starting one. He had an 0-0 record with Milwaukee in 5 games last season after he was brought up from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League.

Dressen was equally enthusiastic about the acquisition of Bolling. "As of now, Hank Aaron is my center fielder," said Dressen "but they tell me Mack Jones, a rookie, can make catches as good as anybody. If he's as good as they say, I'll put him in center."

The Braves may be hurting for outfielders without Bruton, unless Wes Covington can bounce back strong. Others include Bob Taylor, Al Spangler, John DeMerit and Lee Maye.

Bolling was happy, too. Reached at his home in Mobile, Ala., he said "I wasn't surprised. I liked Detroit, but still I appreciate going to Milwaukee because I'll have a chance to play with a contender. I'm real happy over it."

Bolling, 29, hit .254 last season in 139 games. He has been with the Tigers since 1954. He is a right-handed batter.

Bruton, 31, a left-handed batter who had been with the Braves since 1953, finished with .286 last season with 27 doubles, 13 triples, 12 home runs, 54 RBI and 22 stolen bases. He had more hits (180) than Aaron (172) last season, finishing 4th in the NL behind Mays (190), Pinson (187) and Dick Groat (186).

Cottier, 24, a right-handed hitter spent most of the 1960 season with the Braves. He hit .227 and appeared in 95 games. Brown, 25, was bought by the Braves from the White Sox just last week. He was in only 16 games with the White Sox, hitting .163.

Big 10 May Hike Ticket Price In '61

Chicago (AP)—Big 10 athletic directors Wednesday recommended a simple plan to boost income by thousands of dollars—raise the price of football tickets.

Biggie Munn, chairman of the directors group, said the proposal will be put before the governing boards of each school. There is no indication that it will not be accepted.

"The recommendation is being made in the light of increasing costs of running athletic departments, which, naturally, includes the whole sports program," Munn said in describing the only action taken at the opening of a 4-day Big 10 winter business parley.

"The ticket increases would be in effect for the 1961 season. It will be up to each school to determine how much they will be. But it is safe to say there won't be a boost in excess of $1 and probably considerably less."

Generally, football tickets in the Big 10 cost $4 each,

Series Of Incidents Riles Yank Tennists

Perth, Australia (AP) — A series of minor irritations has made America's Davis Cup tennis forces fighting mad for the interzone match with Italy starting Friday.

David Freed, U.S. captain from Salt Lake City, sought Wednesday to iron out the jagged nerves of his athletes, who have been bombarded by criticism in the Australian court outbursts and further nettled at a reception at town hall.

"I have told them to concentrate on tennis and I will take care of the outside problems," Freed said.

The Americans face the formidable team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the best-of-5 match series Friday, Saturday, and Sunday to determine the foe for Australia in the challenge round at Sidney, Dec. 26-28.

The draw was scheduled at noon today for the opening singles, which send America's Barry MacKay and Earl (Butch) Buchholz against Pietrangeli and Sirola.

The Americans, already edgy over their treatment since reaching Australia, got more bumps when they went to a civic reception given by the Lord Mayor.

Getting on the elevator, MacKay said jokingly "to the chambers of the Lord Mayor, please."

"Some more loud mouthed Yanks," said the elevator operator.

"Your elevator should fall to the basement," said one of the Americans.

"I am not one of your American slaves" grumbled the elevator man.

"No, they are more polite," replied another of the tennis players.

At the reception, the Americans were cut again when one of the city officials said he understood betting in Melbourne favored the Italians.

"I hear it is 6-4 for the Italians," said Sirola.

"I know people who will cover all the money you can put up" said 19-year-old Chuck McKinley of St. Louis.

"It seems they are just trying to get us sore but we will show them," said Buchholz grimly.

Buchholz previously had been involved in an incident which got his dander up a little higher than usual.

A morning paper published a picture of him tossing his racket and had a caption which said "Buchholz Annoyed."

"I was down on a side court practicing by myself," Butch said. "This makes me mad, really mad. It is an invasion of my privacy."

The Italians, meanwhile, have been relatively calm, with no blowups or distractions since the stormy Victorian championships at Melbourne when Pietrangeli defaulted a match to McKinney after the referee permitted the American player to don spikes.

NU Matmen Meet 'Cats In Opener

Nebraska wrestlers open the home season against a strong Kansas State mat team Saturday night and a couple of the matches shape up as features.

John Dooley, K-State senior who won the 115-pound Big Eight title here a year ago, will meet Mike Nissen, Husker sophomore from Mason City, Iowa, and recent 123-pound champion in the Iowa State Teachers Invitational at Cedar Falls.

Another top match could develop when Dick Van Sickle, sophomore from Omaha North, meets Larry Word, top scorer for the Wildcats a year ago.

Coach Fritz Knorr of Kansas State will present an all-veteran team considered one of the best in the school's history.

Mickey Sparano's Nebraska team surprised with its showing against a fast field in the Iowa invitational. Nebraska qualified more men for the quarterfinals than any other entry.

Prep Swim Clinic Slated Saturday

Twelve high schools will take part in the annual swimming clinic and relays to be held Saturday at the University of Nebraska pool.

Coaches meet at 10 a.m., the clinic starts at 11, and the relays begin at 2 p.m. No scores are kept, but swimmers will be timed for the information of the coaches.

Schools participating are Lincoln High, Northeast, Southeast, Creighton Prep, Boys Town, Sioux City Central, and Omaha North, South, Central, Benson and Tech.

Campbell Greatest Receiver

By Associated Press

Hugh Campbell, who wasn't listed on Washington State's pre-season roster, ranks as the top pass catcher in major college football history.

Final statistics from the NCAA Service Bureau show that the 6-1, 183-pound sophomore end from Saratoga, Calif., set 5 national records in sweeping pass-catching honors for the 1960 season.

Campbell's records are for most passes caught, 66; most yards gained by pass catching, 881; most caught per game, 7.3 average; most yards per game, 97.9 average, and most touchdown passes caught by a sophomore, 10.

Campbell finished well ahead of the runnerup, Duke's Tee Moorman, who caught 46 passes. He trailed in only one department—average gain per catch. Arizona's Bob Thompson was the winner in that category, picking up 21.3 yards per catch on 16 receptions for 341 yards.

Campbell tied Mississippi's Johnny Brewer for the leadership in TD passes in one game with 3. Brewer, incidentally, caught only 7 passes all season but scored with 5 of them.

Sand Hills Nebraska's Best Deer Hunt Area

Nebraska's Sand Hills, for the second consecutive year, proved the state's most productive rifle deer hunting area, the State Game Commission said Wednesday.

A total of 62.4 per cent of 1960's hunters bagged bucks in the Sand Hills this year.

Commission figures showed that 531 of 851 permit holders in the western Sand Hills unit came out with bucks. The Keya Paha unit finished second with 54.5, with 399 of 732 hunters scoring.

Third was the central Sand Hills unit which produced 275 deer for 537 hunters.

"Even with this good kill, the harvest was still conservative," commission director Mel Steen said.

"The removal of these bucks will in no way interfere with the reproduction potential of the deer herds in these units."

The commission said the kill in the Omaha unit this year was somewhat disappointing.

Deer numbers had built up on the area until the animals became a hazard of the Omaha airport runways. To alleviate the situation, the commission authorized the taking of deer of either sex any day of the season.

Even though 250 permits were issued, only 72 animals were killed, a success score of 28.8 per cent.

The commission theorized that the relatively low harvest was probably due to hunters having limited access to the area.

Last summer, when setting up the seasons, game technicians had aimed for a 40 per cent kill score in the bucks-only units.

"We missed that by 1.2 per cent," Steen said. "The actual kill in all-bucks units was 41.2 per cent."

The plains unit herd was reduced by 246 deer by 454 hunters, a 54.1 per cent score.

The Upper Platte, Upper Missouri, Southern Platte and Southwest units were "on the button," the commission said.

What pulled the total figure down were the relatively lower figures from eastern and southeastern Nebraska-whitetailed deer range.

Chiefs' Ticket Prices Steady

The Lincoln Chiefs will maintain the same ticket prices for the 1961 season in the Three-I League.

Prices are 75c for bleachers, $1 for general admission in grandstand and $1.25 for box seats. A season single box seat sells for $63.

It also was announced that the pre-season ticket drive will be held in April with bonus books selling 10 tickets for $8...

Fremont (AP) —The fall meeting of Tri-State College Conference officials is set Friday at the YMCA in Sioux City, Iowa, according to loop president Dr. Harry H. Kalas, president of Westmar College.

Members will hear, among other things, a report from J. Laiten Weed, chairman of the forensics, drams and music group.

The executive committee, eligibility committees, publicity committee and the athletic contest committee will meet in individual sessions.

Officers of the conference are to be elected at a general session.

Colts Lead Total Offense But Have Title Problems

New York (AP) — The Baltimore Colts are having their troubles in going after a 3rd consecutive National Football League title, but statistics say they're still the same old offensive powerhouse.

The Colts lead in total offense, according to latest league figures, but are in a 3-way tie for first place in the loop's Western Conference with San Francisco and Green Bay.

Baltimore displaced St. Louis this week after the Cards were held to 190 yards in losing to Eastern Conference Champion Philadelphia.

Baltimore has gained 3,796 yards in 10 games, 1,159 by rushing and 2,637 passing.

St. Louis, in 11 games, has gained 3,788. The Cards' runners, led by John David Crow, have rolled up 2,085 yards and a sporadic passing game has netted 1,703.

Green Bay is 3rd with 3,434. Next comes Pittsburgh with 3,381, Cleveland with 3,348 and Philadelphia with 3,234.

The Cards' rushing total is tops, but the Packers are close behind with 1,841. St. Louis has one game left, Green Bay two.

The Colts regained the passing lead, despite a loss to Detroit, with 2,637 yards. Philadelphia is next with 2,170, Pittsburgh is 3rd with 2,063.

Cleveland has a 63.2 passing percentage, topping all other teams.

KU Eligibility Question On Big 8 Meeting Agenda Today

sas chooses not to agree with the NCAA findings?

Here's what the Big 8 rule book says:

"Sec. 14, c, 3 — No member institution may arrange for or permit excessive entertainment of any prospective student-athlete on the campus or elsewhere."

Under "g" of Sec. 14, it reads: "Any violation of this section by a member school, alumni, or friends of the institution, with or without the knowledge of the institution, will render the individual or individuals concerned ineligible for competition at that institution."

Thus, if the Big 8 faculty men abide by the NCAA findings, it would appear that they would also agree that the Coan case violates conference rules.

This, however, would not wind up the matter by any means. If Kansas is found in violation of Big 8 rules, the dons would have to decide on a punishment.

The rule clearly states that a violation "renders the individual ineligible at that institution," but it does not state for what length of time.

Therefore, the faculty men would have to determine if Coan's ineligibility applied just to the 1960 season or for all time. He has two more years of competition, barring a ban.

3 Courses

On the question of 1960, there apparently are 3 courses open to the dons: (1) declare all conference games in which Coan played forfeited; (2) declare only the final two games in which he played — after the NCAA ban — forfeited; (3) take no action on the forfeit question.

Best guess, if KU is found in violation, is that the faculty men would choose the second course of action.

This would cost KU the Colorado and Missouri games, giving the title to Missouri and dropping the Jayhawks to 3rd behind Colorado.

Coan played against every conference team but Nebraska and sat out only the Iowa game in non-loop action.

Indications on the eve of the Kansas City meetings were that either Kansas would be found guilty or that there would be a solid move to strike the "excessive entertainment" rule from the book.

At any rate, the Big 8 faculty meetings shape up as a real donnybrook and the final results will be interesting — to say the least.

Farm Price Index Up Slightly

Prices received by Nebraska farmers for the things they produce climbed about two per cent during the month ending Nov. 15, a report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics disclosed Wednesday.

The mid-November all farm commodity index stood at 256, up 5 points for the month and 19 points above the level a year ago. The price level between 1910 and 1914 is considered 100 points.

Climbing prices for cattle, calves, chickens and eggs during the month were moderated by lower corn prices.

The all livestock and livestock products index of 287 on Nov. 15 was 9 points higher for the month and 29 points higher than last year. The all crops index at 175 was down 3 points for the month and down 7 points for the year.

Cattle were bringing an average of $22.50 per hundredweight in mid-November, up $1.10 for the month and a dime higher than last year.

Chickens averaged 9.8 cents per pound, up a half cent for the month and 2.4 cents above last year.

The egg price average of 33.2 cents a dozen represented a 3.7 cent advance for the month and a 11.2 cent climb since last year.

Hogs remained steady at $16.50 per hundredweight, $4.60 higher than a year earlier.

Corn averaged 86 cents a bushel, down 7 cents for the month and for the year.

Wheat climbed two cents to $1.72 per bushel and oats remained unchanged at 58 cents.

Barley advanced one cent to 80 cents per bushel, but rye prices declined two cents to 77 cents a bushel.

Columbus YMCA Boast Backed Up With Swine

Columbus (AP)—Directors of the Columbus YMCA are backing up a boast with a 200-pound swine.

The boast:

"No community in the U.S. the size of Columbus has a YMCA which offers both an AAU official size swimming pool with 10-foot and 3-foot boards, plus an AAU official size basketball court."

Any YMCA which can disprove the statement will get a 200-pound swine. The challenge was issued in connection with the building's formal dedication to be held 2 p.m. Sunday.

NOW... MID-AMERICA'S UNDERGROUND HIGHWAY BRINGS YOUR LPG DEALER ALL THE PROPANE YOU NEED... IN ANY KIND OF WEATHER!

Propane and its relatives, the go-anywhere Liquefied Petroleum Gases, have enjoyed an increase of more than 600% in the past 15 years. Only one small stumbling-block has prevented these versatile fuels from achieving an even more dramatic gain: transportation. For LP-Gas is most valuable to the farms, homes and industries which lie "off the beaten track", miles away from the nearest natural gas line. Yet these same areas are the hardest hit by road-blocking, rail-blocking winter storms. And so, just when the customer needs it most, LP Gas is sometimes in short supply. BUT NO MORE! Mid-America is here, with an "underground highway" which laughs at the weather! Stretching 2,169 miles, from gathering points in Texas and New Mexico to the farm lands of Minnesota and Wisconsin, this liquefied gas products line assures an almost limitless, dependable supply every day of the year. Now, at last, millions of farm operators, home owners and industries throughout mid-America can enjoy dependable, economical gas with no risk of scarcity!

Cuba Army Says Rebel Force Beat

Havana (AP) — The Cuban army announced Wednesday night that it smashed an insurgent band in the hills of Pinar Del Rio Province, about 32 miles west of Havana.

The announcement said 11 anti-Castro rebels were captured, including the leader of the band who was a former captain in the revolutionary forces.

One army officer was killed and 4 others wounded in the battle Wednesday afternoon at Cabanas, just across the border from Havana Province.

Disclosure of the fighting west of the capital came only hours after unconfirmed reports of a battle between government and militiamen to the east in Central Cuba.

There have been rumors that Fidel Castro was directing this operation in Las Villas province but the prime minister showed up in Havana Wednesday night at a ceremony highlighting observance of Cuba's memorial day.

Castro got a big ovation but did not speak despite shouts from the crowd calling him to the microphone.

In the fighting at Cabanas the army identified the insurgent leader as Capt. Clodomiro Miranda Mendiela, an officer in Castro's army until a few days ago. He defected and reportedly took with him 200 men and a quantity of weapons.

Another insurgent identified as Miranda Mendiela's brother was reported killed.

The Castro army officer killed was identified as Lt. Juan Hernandez. The communique said provincial commander Dermidio Escalona directed the operations against the rebels.

Armed forces minister Raul Castro, brother of the prime minister, was believed in command of the drive to wipe out the insurgents in Central Cuba.

Youth Doing 'Well' After Amputations

Fourteen - year - old John Koca of North Platte was "doing reasonably well" Wednesday night after undergoing additional major surgery.

Dr. F. A. Alcorn, superintendent of the State Orthopedic Hospital, gave the condition report.

The surgery involved additional amputation of the boy's legs. He lost both legs at the knee earlier this year as the result of severe burns suffered at North Platte late in March.

Dr. Alcorn explained that the additional amputation was necessary because skin grafts were not healing properly on the boy's thighs.

The doctor said it still should be possible for John to be fitted with artificial legs, and that he "could do very well with them."

John's mother, Mrs. Frank Koca of North Platte, was with him for the operation Wednesday.

'Hazard' Labeling Denied By Owner

Dr. H. H. Johnson of Lincoln filed an answer to a condemnation suit Wednesday in Lancaster District Court in which he denied that an apartment house he owns at 842 West Q is either a fire hazard or is structurally unsound.

The State Fire Marshal and County Attorney had filed a condemnation action Nov. 22 against Dr. Johnson and had alleged the building was a fire hazard and must have extensive repairs or be torn down.

Dr. Johnson in his reply to the suit stated he has spent $2,163.48 on repairs on the building since May and that he also plans more work on it.

Dag Warns Against U.N. Withdrawal

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold warned the U.N. Security Council Wednesday night that the Congo would be plunged into chaos and anarchy if U.N. forces are withdrawn.

"Everything wolud crumble," Hammarksjold said in a vigorous defense of the U.N. role in the turbulent African republic.

Replying to Soviet criticism that he was a tool of Western imperialism, the secretary-general said he found it difficult to believe that anyone would ask for liquidation of the U.N. Congo operation "in view of the possible consequences of such a move at the present juncture."

He spoke at a resumed session of the council after the introduction of rival East-West resolutions on how to deal with the arrest of deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

Adding to the tenseness of the situation were reports that U.N. members were withdrawing their support from the U.N. Congo operation because of dissatisfaction over the recent turn of events in that turbulent African republic.

Foreman Threatened

Half-Calm Settles On New Orleans

New Orleans (AP) —An uneasy quiet — broken briefly now and again by stones, clubs — fell Wednesday over the front lines of public school integration in New Orleans.

Underlining the explosive nature of the half-calm, 25 teen-aged youths drifted up to police barricades at integrated William Frantz school.

Police broke up the youths into scattered segments, which faded away without demonstration.

But, the youths are the ones the police fear.

Could Cause Trouble

A police officer at the scene said: "That's what we've got to watch out for. Those kids could really cause trouble."

Bitterness toward integration still seethed just below the surface. Vandals tossed two stones through the kitchen windows of Rev. Foreman an apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Gabrielle near William Frantz school.

And, the Rev. Lloyd A. Foreman, a Methodist minister, reported being threatened twice — first through the mails and Wednesday by an unidentified person who touched his shoulder and said:

"I'm going to get you."

Defy Boycott

The Gabrielles and Rev. Mr. Foreman have defied the segregation boycott at William Frantz school, during pickets since the beginning. The church-owned house formerly occupied by the minister was the object of vandals throwing bricks and red paint a night ago.

A policeman who didn't want his picture taken while talking to Rev. Mr. Foreman badly damaged a news photographers camera with a swing of his riot stick at midmorning.

Photographer Frank Beatty of United Press International stood in an area assigned to news media as he snapped the picture.

"I don't want my picture taken," said the club-swinging officer.

His boss, Police Supt. Joseph Giarrusso had said Tuesday that policemen could be pictured at will.

Redistricting Plan Idea Presented

Omaha (AP) — State Sen. John P. Munnelly of Omaha Wednesday detailed a congressional redistricting plan for Nebraska which he said has been turned over to the legislative bill drafter.

Nebraska will lose one congressman because it has lost ground populationwise in relation to other states.

Munnelly said the change is a result of the shift of population to the metropolitan areas.

He proposed a new Second District made up of Douglas, Sarpy, Washington, Dodge, Colfax and Platte counties.

Cass and Otoe counties, now part of the Second District, would be added to the First Congressional District along with Saunders County. Saunders is now in the Third District.

Dodge, Colfax and Platte also are presently in the third.

The balance of the 57 counties would be included in the Third District. Those counties are now divided between the present Third and Fourth Districts.

Mixed Reaction

Lincoln's 3 state senators were mixed in their reactions to Sen. John P. Munnelly's redistricting proposal Wednesday night.

Sen. Marvin Stromer said he had not had a chance to study Sen. Munnelly's plan and since "I have ideas of my own on redistricting" he would have no comment until he had made a thorough study.

But Sen. George Knight said "off hand, that (the proposal) doesn't sound bad." "I don't see anything wrong with the plan but a further study is needed."

Fern Hubbard Orme commented:

"At first glance his proposal is interesting but I can't accept it entirely."

Conceding that it was a "knotty" problem the lady senator added that the most important consideration was redistricting to give as equal as possible population densities. Also:

"Why the senator suggests dropping Cass and Otoe Counties and going west to add Dodge and Colfax instead of going north along the river is something I don't understand."

Dog-Nappers

Chicago (UPI) — "Scotty," a Scotch terrier who rides around in his master's delivery truck, proved a miserable failure as a watchdog. While Scotty guarded the truck alone, thieves took $10,000 worth of furs — and kidnaped Scotty for good measure.

J. D. Anderson Named As VA Employe Of Year

Jack D. Anderson of Lincoln Wednesday was named Nebraska's "VA Employe of the Year."

Anderson, 46, native of Mason City, Neb., is a general attorney for the Veterans Administration.

A. H. Duxbury, manager of the VA regional office in Lincoln, said Anderson was chosen for the honor for outstanding service to the veterans of Nebraska and valuable contributions to community activities. He has been active in church affairs and scouting, is president of the Employes' Association and serves as legal advisor of the Employes Credit Union.

Anderson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska law college and joined the VA in 1945.

Christmas Gifts This Year To Cost Over $7 Billion

New York (UPI) — On Christmas morning Americans will open an estimated $7,300,000,000 woth of presents, according to a survey conducted by Market Facts.

Families with an annual income of less than $7,500 will spend about $100 for such gifts while those with incomes of $7,500 and above will spend close to $200.

Eye Discrimination

Londo (AP)—A bill to prohibit racial discrimination in public places was introduced in the House of Commons by Left-Wng Laborite Fenner Brockway. He said it would bar hotels, restaurants and dance halls, for example, from excluding any person on grounds of color, race or religion.

Girl Finds Out Tardiness Better Than Car-Taking

A 17-year-old high school girl found out Wednesday that it's better to be late for class than to "borrow" a friend's car without permission to get there on time.

One of her high school classmates discovered Wednesday morning that the car which she had parked in the school parking lot was missing, and she reported to police the car had been stolen.

The "theft" was solved about noon when the 17-year-old girl was arrested as she drove into the school parking lot. She told police she had taken the car to drive to a psychology class which was being held at the State Hospital.

The girl was jailed for several hours but was released after being lectured at the county attorney's office.

West O Crash Injures Mother, 6-Mo.-Old Son

Mrs. Arwin L. Neemann of 1400 No. 21st and her 6-month-old son were treated at a Lincoln hospital and then released Wednesday evening following a two-car collision.

Mrs. Neemann's husband, 23, and the baby were thrown from their small foreign car when it crashed into the rear of another auto in the 800 block of West O.

State Safety Patrolman Ben Molcyk said Neemann's car struck one driven by Richard L. Anthony, 19, of Rt. 6, as Anthony was making a left turn.
